Belgian Force Sent to Congo

Big 3 Asks Intervention As Violence Increases

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgian troops have intervened in the Congo to quell the sea of violence sweeping over the former Belgian colony, it was reported Saturday night.

Diplomatic informants in London said the Western Big Three—Britain, the United States and France—jointly appealed to Belgium to send troops to the mutiny-torn Republic of Congo which became independent only 10 days ago.

The Belgian radio, quoting a message from Kabalo in northeastern Katanga Province, said Belgian troops intervened from the base at Kamina when infuriated Congolese soldiers began attacking Europeans aboard a train about to leave for safety in the neighboring British territory of Tanganyika.

Reports from Kampala, Uganda, said heavily armed Belgian paratroopers had moved into besieged Goma in the Congo and shepherded to safety 200 Belgian civilians. They were said to have crossed into the Belgian protectorate of Ruanda Urundi.

The first reports of Belgian intervention came as stories of chaos, disorder and savagery in the sprawling Congo multiplied.

The grimmest stories of rape and killing came from planeloads of men, women and children arriving here as refugees.

The refugees told of brutal requisition of property, of native soldiers forcing white women to disrobe before raping them under the threat of tommyguns. Some said native soldiers forced entry into convents in the Thysville area, brutalizing young girls and married women who had taken refuge there.

They told of white women being triumphantly paraded through the streets of Leopoldville on honking army jeeps while their European menfolk looked on helplessly.

The administrator of a Congo territory told newsmen he had to witness the raping of his own wife and 40 other women, most of them social workers.

The Belgian-trained Congo army, upon which the new government of President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba depended to keep order, has been torn by mutinous soldiers demanding the dismissal of all Belgian officers and higher pay.

The mutiny was thought to have been settled Friday when the government agreed to an all-Congo army, but Belgian Premier Gaston Eskens told reporters Saturday the "situation is worse."

The Belgian airlines, Sabena, canceled all its transatlantic flights between Brussels and

Boy Survives Plunging Over Falls

His Sister Rescued On Brink of Falls; Boat Owner Drowns

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — A 7-year-old boy survived a 161-foot plunge over the Horseshoe Falls Saturday after the boat in which he and two others were riding capsized in the upper Niagara River.

The boy, Rodger Woodward, suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

His sister, Deanne, 17, was rescued a few feet from the brink of the roaring falls.

The owner of the boat, James Honeycutt, 40, Niagara Falls, was missing and presumed drowned.

The boy was believed to be the first person ever to survive an accidental plunge over the falls.

He was reported in good condition in General Hospital at Niagara Falls, Ont.

His sister, also with minor injuries, was reported in fair condition at Memorial Hospital at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The children's father, Frank, 39, Niagara Falls, N.Y., said Rodger told him that the water north of Grand Island "suddenly got rough" and the boat overturned.

Visitors at the falls told police they saw the boy being swept over. The outboard motor boat also went over.

Diane was saved when two men braved the rapids near the edge to pull her to safety.

Police said John R. Hayes Sr., Voxhall, N.J., waded into the rapids when he saw the girl being carried to the falls. John A. Quat-

To Tax Commission Chairman

County Assessor Protests Cattle Increase Valuation

Pettis County Assessor Jerry Trotter has officially protested the blanket five per cent increase on the assessed valuation of neat cattle in the county. The increase was ordered by the Missouri State Tax Commission July 6.

In a letter to Hon. James Robertson, chairman of the tax commission, Trotter stated:

"This letter is in regard to the blanket raise of five per cent of all our neat cattle in Pettis County, and also in regard to my telephone conversation with Judge Williams verifying this raise as of July 6, 1960.

"For the past seven years I have done everything in my power to keep something like this from happening to the people of Pettis County. I would like for you, the members of the State Tax Commission, to check the prices of cattle at the time the assessment was made on the cattle here in Pettis County. I am sure that you will find that reconsideration is due in this case, for the farmers in Pettis County.

"I would also like to point out, at this time, that the deputies which I have in the rural area are people who are capable, and who have been raised on the farm, they know cattle and what cattle are worth at the time of assessment.

"I am objecting to this raise bitterly, as I do not think this raise is justified and that it is unfair and unjust to the people whom I represent in Pettis County. I sincerely hope that this matter is taken into consideration, and the your conslusion will be in favor of Pettis County, and that this raise will be taken off our tax books."

The raise will increase the average evaluation from $33 per head to $36 average per head.

In addition to protesting the action of the commission, Trotter said he believed this is a high-handed action of an appointed commission over an elected county official. He added that he is consulting an attorney to determine if the action is legal.

Samuel King, 78, Is Victim

Fristoe Man Is Killed In Highway Accident

Samuel Kennedy King, 78, Fristoe, Mo., died about 8 p.m. Saturday at Bothwell Hospital from injuries suffered in a one-car accident in Benton County about three hours earlier. King's death was recorded as the second traffic fatality for Benton County in a week.

King was rushed to the Bothwell Hospital in the Reser ambulance of Warsaw and was given emergency treatment by Dr. G. A. Walker. Death was attributed to head and chest injuries.

Monday, July 4, Leroy Kullman, 30, Cole Camp, died enroute to the Bothwell Hospital after an accident just south of Warsaw on Highway 65. Eleven others were injured in this accident.

According to Trooper G. V. Means, who investigated at the scene of the accident, the highway was being resurfaced at this point, and was built up on the curves, leaving about an eight to ten inch dropoff to the shoulder.

The 1951 Chevrolet driven by King reportedly went off the new surface and ran along the shoulded for some distance before King tried to force it back on the highway.

Trooper Means said skid marks indicated King got back on the Highway, but then went off again, jumped a ditch, tore through a fence and finally overturned once. Ambulance attendants reported King was found outside the car.

Trooper Richard Joos notified the Democrat-Capital of King's death Saturday night. Joos assisted Means in the investigation.

The investigating officers reported that Benton County has recorded two fatalities this year, both of them last week.

King's body was taken to the Reser Funeral Home Saturday night. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Ike Warns Russia to Keep Hands Off Cuba

Khrushchev Vows Support For Castro

Says USSR Rockets Can Hit Mid-US Upon Intervention

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev Saturday pledged allout support for Cuba in its struggle with the United States. The Soviet Premier declared the U.S.S.R. now has rocket power capable of hitting America's heartland if the "Pentagon dare start an intervention" in Cuba.

He said the time of American dictation in Latin American affairs is over and the Soviet Union is "raising its voice and extending a helpful hand to the people of Cuba fighting for their independence."

"We must serve a warning that today is not the time when the imperialists robbed and shared the world at their discretion," Khrushchev declared. "We shall do everything to support Cuba in her struggle.

"Now the United States is not so unreachable as it once was. Speaking figuratively, in case of necessity, Soviet artillery can support with their rocket fire the Cuban people if aggressive forces in the Pentagon dare to start intervention against Cuba."

Khrushchev charged American policy seeks to strangle Cuba with an economic blockade.

"We will help our Cuban brothers fight an economic blockade, and the blockade will be a failure," he said.

The warning was made in a brisling speech to a meeting of school teachers in the Kremlin and was the boldest and most direct challenge to the Monroe Doctrine since that cornerstone of U.S. foreign policy was issued Dec. 2, 1823. The doctrine lays down the policy that the United States will not tolerate any interference from powers outside the Western Hemisphere in the affairs of North and South America. It last was challenged by Britain in 1893 over intervention in Venezuela, but London backed away when the United States took a firm stand.

It appeared inevitable that Khrushchev's speech would have reprecussions on American domestic policy. The Soviet Premier bluntly served notice on Washington and the rest of the world that the Soviet Union and all its allies stood firmly behind Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro in his dispute with the United States.

At President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., White House press secretary James C. Hagerty noted the State Department had said Friday that Khrushchev seems to be more interested in making threats than in negotiating. Hagerty said that statement stands as the U.S. comment on Khrushchev's latest blast.

'Mexico With Cuba' Statement Isn't Government Policy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Highly informed Latin American diplomatic and Mexican government sources said Saturday the "Mexico with Cuba" statement made by a congressional leader does not represent Mexican government policy.

They said it was believed in top-level government circles that former President Lazaro Cardenas was instigating and agitating the situation, taking advantage of the touchy international crisis between the United States and Cuba to renew his own political power.

The controversial statement, which created a tense situation between Mexico and the United States, almost unequaled since the expropriation of the American oil properties, was made by Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the Congressional Permanent Committee. Sanchez Piedras is known to be a follower of Cardenas.

"Sanchez Piedras does not speak for the Mexican government or the PRI — government-dominated party of Revolutionary Institutions"—an official of the party said Saturday.

He asked not to be identified.

Castro Calls For Greater Anti-US Acts

Cuban Leader Is Bolstered By Nikita's Warning

HAVANA (AP) — Bolstered by Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev's warning that Soviet rockets could strike the United States if Cuba were attacked, Prime Minister Fidel Castro summoned his followers Saturday to new and greater demonstrations against American "aggression."

Khrushchev's declaration that the Soviet Union, with its rocket arsenal, is pledged to all-out support of Cuba in its "David and Goliath" struggle with Washington, coincided with Castro's efforts to assemble a million and a half supporters here Sunday in a mass demonstration of support for his leftist regime.

Many here saw in the Soviet Premier's promise of support for Castro disclosure of a mutual defense pact between Cuba and the Kremlin secretly negotiated—perhaps by Armed Forces Minister Raul Castro, now in Prague—to further embarrass the United States.

Castro supporters were quick to pick up Khrushchev's bold challenge to Washington and link it with statements of Mexican politicians in support of the Cuban government's contention that "our revolution does not stand alone."

First reaction in neutral quarters was that Soviet solid backing

Won't Allow Red-Ruled Cuba Regime

He Notes Treaties Call for Blocking Outside Interference

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday night bluntly warned the Soviet Union to keep hands off Cuba. He told Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev the United States won't stand for a Cuban regime dominated by international communism.

The President fired his stern warning a few hours after Khrushchev had pledged all-out support to the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in its crisis-ridden struggle with the United States.

Khrushchev also had rattled the Soviet Union's rockets again.

In a Moscow speech he said the U.S.S.R. now has rocket power capable of smashing America's heartland if the United States dared intervene in Cuba.

The vacationing Eisenhower, trout fishing when he got word of the latest Khrushchev blast, immediately conferred by telephone with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who was in Washington.

The Soviet leader sounded off amid administration concern that he may overplay his hand and perhaps try to make good on some of his boastful threats — and conceivably start World War III.

Eisenhower's tough statement appeared to reflect that concern.

Eisenhower noted that the United States and other American republics are bound by more than one treaty to block any outside interference in the affairs of the Western Hemispheere.

"I affirm in the most emphatic terms that the United States will not be deterred from its responsibilities by the threats Mr. Khrushchev is making," Eisenhower said in his statement.

"Nor will the United States, in conformity with its treaty obligations, permit the establishment of a regime dominated by international communism in the Western Hemisphere."

Eisenhower accused the Soviet Union of "clear intention to establish Cuba in a role serving Soviet purposes in this hemisphere."

"The statement of the Soviet Premier reflects the efforts of an

Smith-Cotton Class Of 1930 Is Holding First Class Reunion

The class of 1930, Smith-Cotton High School, is holding its first reunion today, starting with a coffee at 10 a.m. at the high school cafeteria.

Dinner will be served at the Pacific Cafe at 1 o'clock this afternoon which will be followed by a program.

Charles Patterson, Jr., is chairman, and stated that 125 reservations had been made for the dinner.

There were two graduating classes that year, one in January, 1930 and the other in May, 1930. Graduates of both classes will attend the reunion.

Student Reunion Is Planned At Smith-Cotton

A meeting of former students of Sedalia High School will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the assembly room on the first floor of the Pettis County courthouse, to organize and discuss a reunion to be held during the Sedalia Centennial in October.

The meeting will be open to anyone interested but is intended, in particular, for the "old timers" who attended high school in Sedalia between the years of 1896, when the old building was opened, and 1926, when classes were moved to the Smith-Cotton building. The old building, now the home of Central Business College, is located at Sixth and Massachusetts.

The doors of the courthouse will be opened at 6:45 p.m. for the meeting. The assembly room is located on the first floor, on the north side of the corridor.

All former students of old Sedalia High School are urged to attend this kick-off meeting which will lay preliminary plans for the reunion.

Luther J. Luckett, 512 South Carr, will serve as chairman of the meeting. Miss Mamie McCormick and Mrs. Frank Wilson helped to arrange the meeting.

Pediatric Ward New Feature At the Bothwell Hospital

No longer do the children patients at Bothwell Memorial Hospital have to share a room with some older person. The youngsters have been taken care of with a new pediatric ward which is located on the second floor of the old part of the hospital.

Walls have been taken out, remodeling and painting has converted a group of small rooms into a cheerful and attractive big room with three blue walls and one of yellow gray with dawn pink furniture. There are several chairs of dawn pink and black with bright colored upholstery of persimmon shade. Before the new wing of the hospital was built, one of the rooms was the medical library for doctors, one for the director of nurses, one for the cystolgy operating room and part was a storage room.

On the wall is a picture in vivid colors of two shelves of toys including dolls and a jumping jack. This big picture was bought with the $15 raised by the Brownie Scout Troop No. 26, Horace Mann School and donated to the hospital.

There are five special children's beds which have the sides that may be pulled up to make crib-type beds for the younger children, and there is a smaller bed for the tiny ones. Above each bed is a new type light fixture that may be turned on bright for reading or may be switched to a night light. Too, above each bed is a place that may be plugged in for oxygen which is piped in through the wall.

Small chests along one wall and bedside tables match the beds. There are a number of chairs in two styles with the persimmon upholstery and then there is one big comfortable chair that makes out into a nice bed for mothers who want to spend the night with

Lively, Rowdy Convention Gets Underway On Monday

Editor's Note—No other political drama matches a national convention. To help you enjoy the Democratic show starting Monday AP writer Arthur Edson — who first hit the convention circuit in 1948—gives you a rundown on the cast.

By ARTHUR EDSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If it's a lively, rowdy political convention you're after, this could be it.

Monday the Democrats move into the new Sports Arena—it looks something like a monstrous, sky-blue flying saucer at roost — to pick the man they think should be the next President of the United States.

Not since 1952 have the prospects for excitement looked so good.

That was the year of the great turbulence, when the Democrats chose Adlai Stevenson and the Republicans came up with a promising political rookie, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Both conventions were honeys. Millions who watched television, and saw politics on the grand scale for the first time, became convinced they all were like this.

This convention may renew their faith.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) the front runner, has been loping along impressively. His coaches loudly insist he will win in a breeze. But you may notice that Kennedy keeps looking back nervously to see if anyone is gaining on him.

The big questions to be settled here are: Can anyone catch Kennedy? If so, who?

To help you understand what the shouting is all about, let's take a quick look at some of the characters you'll be seeing, hearing and reading about the next week.

The first official voice you'll hear will belong to Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He will call the convention to order.

Butler, at 55, stays as slim as a debutante, dresses impeccably. He neither drinks nor smokes, possibly because he has to watch his health. He's a diabetic, but he whips right along, fully charged with insulin.

Theoretically, a national chairman is all things to all party men. Butler says what he thinks, and though his views—he's for stronger civil rights, for example—often cause his fellow Democrats to cry out in horror, he's been national chairman since January 1954.

That's astonishing durability in this risky business.

The chore of getting the convention off to a whirlwind start falls on the slender shoulders of what must be the youngest looking senator in our history, Frank Church of Idaho. As temporary chairman, he will make the keynote speech.

Only three senators took office at a more boyish age than Church. He was 32 when he was sworn in three years ago. But he looked much younger.

They laughed when Church was mistaken for a Senate page boy, but the jeers turned to applause after he stood up to speak.

As a 16-year-old schoolboy, Church tore into a speech, "The American Way of Life," so effectively that he won the national American Legion contest—and a $4,000 college scholarship.

The permanent chairman of the convention, who wields tremendous power simply by deciding whom to recognize, and when, will be Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida.

It will be a shock to see Collins as the gavel-pounder. This handsome, graying, tall 51-year-old could never be confused with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Rayburn, bald, short, stern, fair—at 78 a man of tremendous dignity—had held this job so long many believed he was the permanent chairman.

This year Rayburn stepped aside to manage the presidential campaign for one of his boys, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

And now, the candidates.

Since Kennedy is in front, let's start with him.

No man in our history has run for the presidency as relentlessly and perhaps as skillfully as Kennedy.

Modern inventions, and the Kennedy millions, have made this possible.

With his own plane, Kennedy has been able to travel enormous distances and still keep up some semblance of holding down a job as senator.

At 43, Kennedy has such a youthful grin and such tremendous charm that it's easy to forget that this nice young man knows where he wants to go and is determined to get there.

Long ago Kennedy made a prediction.

"I may not win the nomination," he said, "but if I'm beaten, the winner will know he's been through the fight of his life."

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri has the most nerve-tingling position of the candidates.

His plan seems to be to hang on and circulate and hope. As other candidates fade, their delegates will have to turn somewhere.

And what better final resting place than with Symington, who, at 59, had had more executive experience than all other candidates combined?

Like all candidates, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas loves words with which no one can quarrel. "I'm for responsible leadership," he will say belligerently.

But it's true that while other senators were out trying to tease good marks out of the voters, Johnson as Senate majority leader was tending the senatorial store.

Johnson, 51, big, persuasive, hard driving, has many things going against him. Some liberals say he doesn't show enough enthusiasm for pushing their products; some conservatives hint he's not steady enough at holding the line. Any leader of a mixed crew like the senatorial Democrats is bound to have some problems.

But if this convention reaches a time when a small group of men sit down to decide what's to be done, never underestimate the political power of Lyndon B. Johnson and Sam Rayburn.

Sometimes it seems that Adlai Stevenson, like Shirley Temple, has made a career of being coy. Every time one looks up, someone is debating that great issue, is he, or isn't he, a candidate?

Few politicians have had such a remarkable record.

It's hard to remember that Stevenson never ran for office until 1948, when he was elected governor of Illinois. Now he has a worldwide reputation, yet that's the only elective office he has ever held.

He's back again as a maybe so, maybe no candidate. His followers, faithful as ever, believe that at the first hint of a deadlock, Democrats will turn to Stevenson for a third time.

There will be many dark horses: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California, Gov. George Docking of Kansas, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, among others.

Africa Drums Up Trouble In Striving for Freedom

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON — The hurricane of African change goes howling through the lobbies of Parliament and the corridors of the British Colonial Office.

This city has become a mecca both for politicians from the newly independent African states and for agitators from African colonies fighting for freedom. Conspiracies, as well as constitutions are hatched here.

The central breeding ground is the basement offices of the Committee of African Organizations, latest of the African freedom groups.

Preaching the doctrine of Pan-Africanism — "Africa for Africans" — the CAO is the coordinating body for 25 African organizations. It is not a political party, say its chairman, Kwesi Armagh of Ghana and secretary, John Longmore of Nigeria.

From its walls, a poster of Paul Robeson, the American Negro singer, grins out alongside of those urging freedom for Algeria, a boycott of South African goods and a halt to French atom bomb tests in the Sahara. Mimeograph machiness turn out propaganda leaflets eight hours a day.

Among the exiled African leaders who operate near the shadows of the CAO are Peter Koinange, Kenya leader linked with the Mau Mau; Joshua Nkomo, president of the outlawed African Congress party in Southern Rhodesia and Kenyama Chiume, the preacher for Nyasaland's freedom.

Britain plays host to these exiles, as a Colonial Office spokesman explained, because "These men may be premiers, cabinet ministers or even opposition leaders one day."

Many of these prospective leaders, as well as the CAO, would like to see all of Africa free and united as one nation along federal lines. The Ghana-Guinea union is being used as a "pilot study" of this plan.

Chairman Armagh speaks of the "African personality" as a distinct political and cultural entity wth a heritage common to Ghana and Kenya, Madagascar and the Chad."

Pan-Africa embraces the West Indies. "West Indians are as much African as the natives of the Congo."

Nor are the CAO's activities confined to British-speaking parts of Africa and the West Indies. Currently inciting rebellion in the French-speaking Cameroons and the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique, the CAO has issued a pamphlet called "The Rape of the Cameroons" which speaks of the "imperialist beasts now at bay."

"Africa is not an extension of Europe," Armagh says heatedly.

"Nor of the United States," Longmore adds. "Africa was a great empire long before the Europeans began to crawl out of their forests and caves."

The CAO steers visiting Africa celebraties like Kenya's Tom Mboya around London, arranges press conferences, sees that they meet the right people including Labor party and trade union leaders.

But its main activity is agitation and propaganda — protest meetings, defense funds, leaflets and press releases.

The British boycott of South African goods in protest against apartheid was conceived in the CAO's basement office. So was the recent campaign against Frenche A-bomb tests in the Sahara.

The CAO draws its lieutenants from among the 10,000 Africans now studying at British universities and polytechnic schools. Many of these are "professional students" who have long since qualified or abandoned their studies for the delights of politics.

One of the CAO's immediate objectives is to get a larger and more impressive headquarters.

"We would like to climb out of this basement and into the light," Armagh explained. "We would like to have offices in a brand new building with an elevator for we are definitely on the rise."

All Have Church Ties

Presidency Hopefuls Offer Variety of Denominations

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Seekers after the American presidency today offer quite a contrast in religious persuasions.

All the leading prospects have church ties, to varying degrees.

Their denominations range from the doctrinally definite to the creedless.

While many influential voices have been raised to deplore sectarian prejudice in the contest, it also has been widely held that a man's faith, whatever its classification, is a vital aspect of his character and outlook.

"Men may serve false gods, but some god they will serve," says Prof. John Streitelmeier, of Valparaiso, Ind., University.

"In the case of the President of the United States, we have every reason to inquire who his god is."

As the nominating conventions near, here are the religious connections of some of those considered most likely choices:

Among the Democrats—

Sen. John F. Kennedy, whose religion has been most intensively discussed, is a devout Roman Catholic, nurtured in the ancient faith since childhood. No member of his church has ever achieved the presidency.

He and his wife attend services weekly, usually at Holy Trinity church in Washington, or at St. Joseph's, in his home parish in Boston. During the week they often worship at special holy day services.

On Sept. 5, 1957, Green said, he received a telegram from a school official asking for a transcript of Butler's school records. In that same year, Miss Clark said, Butler was reported living at Monroe, La.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson was baptized as a boy in the Christian Church (related in origin to the Disciples of Christ) in his hometown of Johnson City, Texas, where he still holds membership.

When he attends services in Washington, it is usually with his wife and daughters, who are Episcopalians, at the National Episcopal Cathedral. His older daughter, Lynda Bird, 16, attends the National Cathedral School.

Adlai Stevenson, a long-time Unitarian, in 1955 joined the Presbyterian Church in Libertyville, Ill., where he lives, because there was no Unitarian church in the area.

His mother was a Unitarian, his father a Presbyterian.

Sen. Stuart Symington is an Episcopalian, a member of Christ Church Cathedral, in St. Louis, Mo. In Washington, he attends the National Cathedral.

Among the Republicans:

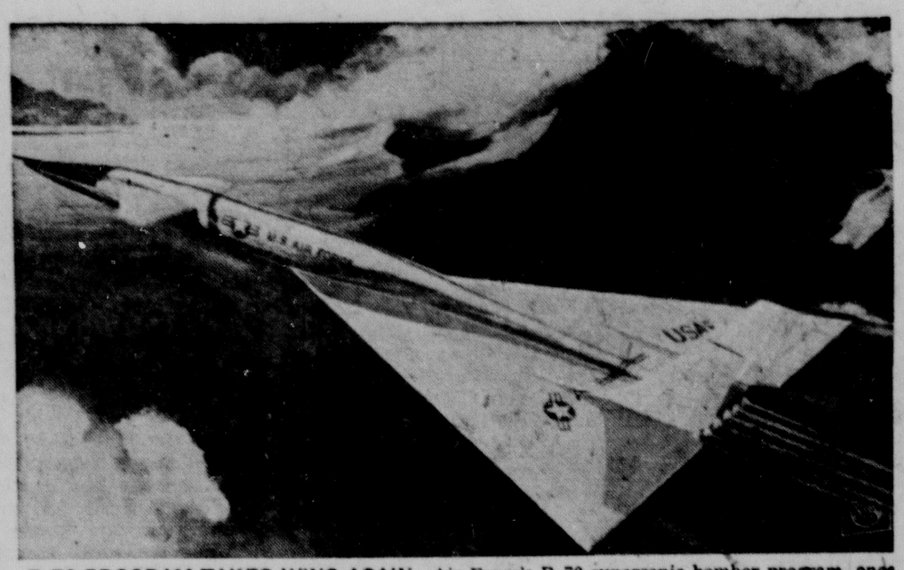

Vice President Nixon is a Quaker. But in Washington, he and his wife quite regularly attend the Metropolitan Methodist church near their home. He feels a person should take part in the church in his immediate neighborhood.

In his hometown of Whittier, Calif., he was a member of the Friends (Quaker) church there, and grew up in a Quaker family.

Not all Quakers are pacifists, as often thought, but many are, and there is a strong Quaker tradition against bearing arms. Nixon, after a struggle of conscience, fought as a naval officer in World War II.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, of New York, is a Baptist, from a long line of Baptists. However, he attends the interdenominational Union Church at Pocantico Hills, N.Y., where he customariiy spends weekends.

He and his family have made large gifts to church work, particularly of an interdenominational nature. His son, Steven, now is a student at Union Theological Seminary, and is considering becoming a minister.

B-70 PROGRAM TAKES WING AGAIN—Air Force's B-70 supersonic bomber program, once slashed to 75 million dollars, has been refueled by the Senate. The B-70, shown in artist's sketch, above, got a 290-million-dollar boost in the Senate's proposed money bill of $40,514,897,000. That figure is roughly a billion dollars larger than the amount President Eisenhower had requested for defense appropriations.

Missionaries Are Visitors In Pace Home

NELSON—The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Wehrman, missionaries from the Phillipine Islands, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Pace recently. Rev. Wehrman is a former Nelson pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Younger and Joe W. Newman attended the Saline County Masonic Association dinner at Sweet Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Tanner moved from their home here to Marshall Sunday afternoon.

Miss Eva Marie Dean, St. Louis, spent the weekend with Mrs. Neil Brown.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Wilson and sons, Paul's Valley, Okla., spent a weekend with the Rev. and Mrs. Ira W. Griffis. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Reich and daughter of Kansas City.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Younger and Pam were Mr. and Mrs. James Noll, Marion, Ill. Mrs. Noll is the former May Triebsch.

Mrs. Jewell Bryant and Mrs. Alma Brown returned home after spending two weeks visiting Herschel Wilson, Hot Springs, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Nerthercutt and family of Eldorado, Ark. Mrs. Brown has returned to Helena, Mont.

Mrs. George Schull, Dennis, and Miss Agnes Ritchey, Sedalia, and Joe Newman spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Leonhardt. Mrs. Mayfield was an afternoon visitor.

Formosa's Trouble Lies In Success

TAIPEI — (NEA) — Two quotes to sum up the spectre haunting Nationalist China today:

From a U. S. military observer:

"As a vital link in the Free World's chain around Red Asia, Formosa has never been stronger. As an anti-Red showplace in Asia, the island is a roaring success."

From a Nationalist government officer:

"Too much more strength and success like this and we'll be in serious trouble here."

With a standard of living that rivals Japan for first place in Asia (and with fuller employment), Formosa counts its population today at a crowded 10.5 million. And going up by the minute.

At the present birth rate, the island's population could double in another dozen years. Add the potential surge of refugees fleeing Red China into Hong Kong at the rate of 300 per week, many of them asking for entry into Formosa, and the problem of overpopulation is immediate.

In addition are the citizens of the beleaguered offshore islands, Quemoy and Matsu, who might need sanctuary.

"Obviously," military strategists say, "Red China would meet a stiff defense if she tried to take these islands. But whether their defense would mean general war is another question."

Either way — a rush of immigrants or steady birth rate — the strength of Formosa is also her weakness. For with a booming economy and a smoothly running land reform program, there is hardly any place left to plant additional food crops.

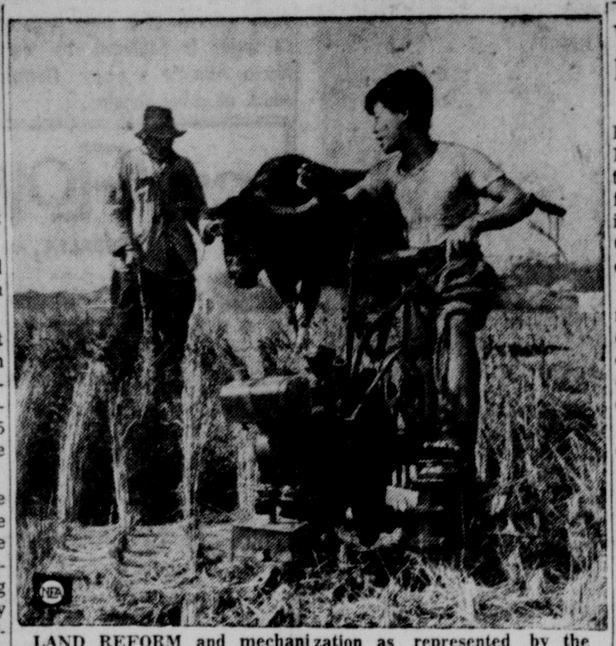

And with a premium on export crops like sugar and the pressure of expanding industry, available land may soon diminish. Within three years Formosa farmers will begin to own their land outright—and with it, the legal right to sell.

One obvious answer to the problem is offered by Japan, namely, birth control.

Japanese, faced with the same dilemma of feeding 93 million people from arable land half the size of California, have cut their birth rate to about 15 per thousand by means of contraception education and legalized abortion.

"The parallels between us and Japan are very close," a Nationalist China government man agreed. "But Japan's story falls on many deaf ears here."

In the first place, the land reform program is not finished. There are still restrictions against selling unless the final payments have been made and the purchaser is also a farmer.

LAND REFORM and mechanization as represented by the modern plow above have increased food production but the Formosa population is booming even faster.

And so, most Formosa farmers are wedded to their land at least for a while. The best bet, therefore: large families to help work the land and pay it off. That payment is a big consideration in birth control.

But even larger than the monthly mortage payment is the gigantic shadow cast on the whole Formosan economy — and therefore morality — by the U. S.

In this U. S.-sponsored show window, it is not surprising that island residents can often tell an American visitor the up-to-the-minute news from Washington and which Congressmen are for Chiang Kai-shek today or against him.

For those Nationalists who are living in Formosa only until the day they can go back to the mainland, what Washington thinks is vital in bringing the day of attack nearer. For native Taiwanese who have never had it so good, what Washington spends is vital in keeping the economy up.

"We know who is running for office in the U.S.," a Chiang official says, ticking off the major election contests coming up this autumn.

"We know what many of the issues in the states are," a native Formosan says. "We'd have to be foolhardy to begin a program here to educate the people to practice birth control.

"It could put our whole cause in jeopardy."

If the Free World's defense strategy depends on Formosa to be a show window in Asia, Communist China's survival depends on keeping a window of her own facing west.

New Record Is Expected, In 'Visit' US Campaign

By Jerry Bennett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A foreign language dictionary may come in handy on your summer vacation even if you never set foot out of the U.S.A., because a record six million foreign tourists are expected to see this country's sights with you during 1960.

The boom is the result of a gigantic promotion campaign sponsored by the government and the U. S. travel industry to entice foreigners to tour America. It has the blessing of President Eisenhower who has proclaimed 1960 as "Visit U.S.A. Year."

Although the campaign is promoting fun, there is nothing frivolous about why it has been established. Most important reason is to boost goodwill by encourgaging others to see what Americans are like.

Another is to strengthen the U.S. economy by reducing a deficit in our international trade balance. Treasury officials report that U. S. expenditures abroad exceed our receipts by almost four billion dollars a year. About one billion of this amount is money spent by American tourists overseas.

C. P. Austin, Director of the Commerce Department's Bureau of International Travel, explains that last year U.S. tourists spend two billion dollars overseas, about one billion more than visitors spent in this country.

Thus, getting more foreigners to visit and spend in the U.S. is one way to help close the trade gap.

Third reason for the "Visit U.S. A. Year" program is to relieve an economic pinch on the American domestic travel industry. The billions which Americans spent overseas last year is money that otherwise might have gone to tourist attractions in this country.

To help promote the tourist drive, the State Department has cut much of the red tape that used to be involved in getting a visa for travel in this country. Now, a foreigner, who is not a Communists and who has no criminal record, can obtain a visa in less than a day, State Department officials say. Visas can be revalidated during four years without formal application.

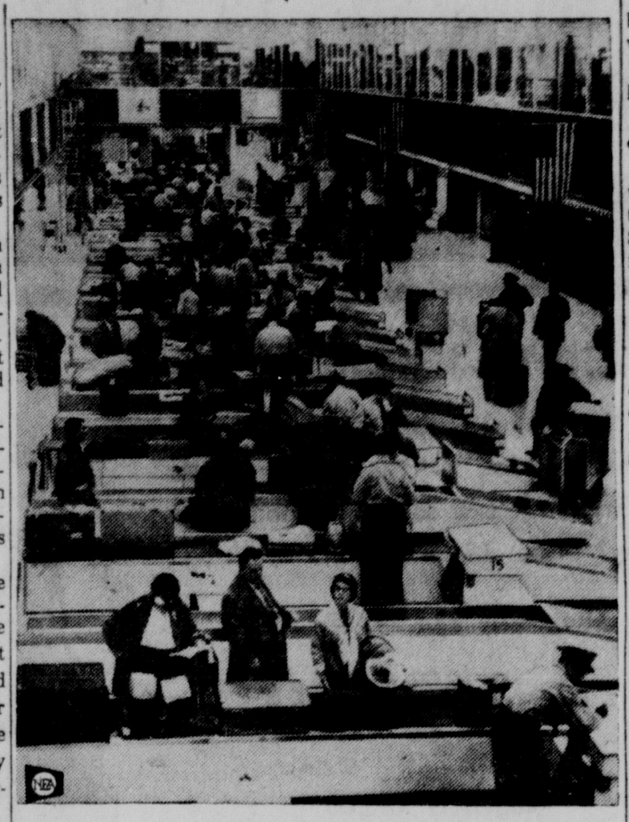

For applicants suspected of being undesirable, State Department officials admit clearance does take days or even weeks.

Another means to promote the U.S. tourist trade is contained in a bill introduced by Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) which may be passed during this session of Congress. It would empower the Commerce Department to establish government travel bureaus in foreign countries and advertise our tourist attractions. The lack of such offices has long been blamed for the meager number of foreign tourists to the U.S.

U.S. commercial carriers are promoting "Visit U.S.A. Year" by introducing special low cost travel plans for foreigners. The National Association of Travel Organizations has printed an elaborate brochure which is being distributed overseas.

Special travel books, like Parage Magazine's Family Vacation Guide, have also been sent to our foreign consulates and U.S. Information Agency libraries.

Russia is promoting tourism with brochures, speeches, movies and television shows advertising U.S. attractions.

MANY OF THE VISITORS from this year will come through U.S. customs at New York's International Airport.

At Ryan's County Home

Annual Republican Picnic Planned Monday, July 18

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan will be host and hostess to Pettis County Republicans at the annual picnic at their country home July 18 at 6:30 p.m. The picnic is sponsored by Pettis County Republican Women and the County Committee.

Mr. Ryan, chairman of the Republican County Committee, points out that Pettis County Republicans are proud of the fact that four Pettis County Republicans are on the primary ballot asking for nomination as candidates for state and district office in the general election.

They are Dick Batties, a local business man who is a candidacy for nomination to the candidacy for lieutenant - governor; Dick Monsees, a prominent Pettis County farmer, secretary of state: Donald Stohr, an attorney now residing in St. Louis, seeking the nomination as attorney general; and Earl Crawford, local attorney who is seeking the nomination as candidate for senator from the 33rd senatorial district. Mr Stohr is the son of Mr. and Mrs Julius Stohr, 904 South Prospect. All four candidates (pictured in an ad in today's paper) were born and reared in Pettis County.

Other state level candidates will be in attendance at the picnic. Both William Ewald of St. Louis and Edward Farmer of Joplin who are seeking the nomination as candidate for governor have accepted the invitation, as have most of the others seeking nomination in the August primary for state office.

Dr Guss Salley of Warsaw and Mr. Bartel of Columbia who are seeking the nomination as candidate for congressman from the 11th District will be on hand to meet Pettis Countians. Tom Woolsey of Versailles and D. T. Weekley of Blackwater who are opponents of Mr. Crawford for nomination as candidate for senator of the 33rd District in the primary election expect to attend the picnic.

The following persons seeking nomination for county office will be present and meet voters: for State Representative, L. L. Studer; for Judge of the County Court, Eastern District, Major John M. Drenon; for Judge of the County Court, Western District, C. M. Purchase; for Sheriff, Carl J. Meyer, Nathan Brown and A. W Walker; for assessor, Harry Brougher; for Public Administrator J. L. Collins and Charles Maggard.

The following committee chairmen have been appointed and they will announce their committee members later: Mrs. Herbert Seifert, chairman of the host and hostess committee, announced that due to the number of candidates to be presented the dinner will start promptly at 6:30 and she reminds every one to bring their own table service and a picnic basket; coffee and ice-tea will be furnished.

Other committee chairman and co-chairmen are: coffee, Mr. and Mrs. J. Short; tea, Mrs Jack Kellerman and Mrs. William McCune; table and food arrangement, Mrs. Anna Berger, Mrs. Forest Rowe and Mrs. D. F Richards; food, A. G. Billingsley, Evert Stumpf and Rev. J. R. Mitchell; calling, Mrs. A. W. Haller, Mrs. Bernice Jones and Mrs. John Daniels; chairs, James Atkinson and Lawrence Kerr; guests service Mrs. Earl Lugen; parking Leslie Hale and Oscar Lawson.

Dead Man Tells His Tale

DR. HARRY EINHORN (right) will be "more cautious" before he pronounces his father, Max (left), dead again.

.. By Oliver W. Brown Jr. ..
. Newspaper Enterprise Assn. ..

DAYTON, Ohio, — (NEA) — Max Einhorn, 76, was pronounced dead at St. Elizabeth Hospital here on Oct. 28, 1959, by his son, Dr. Harry Einhorn and Dr. S. Paul Rose.

But ask him how he feels today and he'll say, "Fine."

Max Einhorn is one of those men who has been to the 'other side" and back — although he doesn't remember a minute of the time he was "dead."

His case now is dexcribed as "one in a million" by his own son, but at the time he was brought into the hospital, nothing about the circumstances seemed unusual.

Max had suffered a heart attack while playing pinochle. Doctors at the hospital found that he had stopped breathing and his heart had stopped.

An elderly man had died. Everything appeared routine.

His family was notified, a funeral home called. Dr. Rose left the hospital and Dr. Einhorn was about to go.

It was nearly half an hour since Max Einhorn had been pronounced dead when a nurse's aide entered his room. She saw his eyes flutter, his arm move. Dr. Einhorn rushed upstairs and resumed treatment. Dr. Rose joined him.

The mortician arrived. "He was flabbergasted when we sent him back." Dr. Einhorn's wife says.

Dr Einhorn says that he and Dr. Rose are uncertain whether their first attempts to revive Max five minutes after he was believed dead, saved his life. Dr. Rose says he struck Max sharply on the chest to stimulate heart action.

According to Dr. Einhorn, a person does not die until he has suffered irreversible brain damage from lack of oxygen. Even if the heart and lungs stop functioning, a person may live if the brain can get them going again.

"But more remarkable than his survival is the recovery that he has made since then," Dr Einhorn says. "Brain damage or major paralysis would be expected in such cases."

But Max, who was 77 on March 15, now is mentally alert and almost psysically fit, although it took him six months to regain his faculties.

"He gets dizzy when he walks and there is a weakness in his right arm. But that is likely to happen to anyone his age," Dr. Einhorn says.

Max's reaction to all this?

"I wouldn't like to go through that again. Not that I felt anything. I didn't know anything about it.

"I didn't want to believe it but everybody had the same story" he says, adding that "a pretty good job was done."

Although he was coherent and could talk soon after he was revived, Max remembers nothing from the time he "died" until he woke up one morning in a convalescent home in Medway, Ohio.

But the events leading up to his "death" are clear. "I know they took me away. I couldn't play any more pinochle.

Politicians List Wives As One of Their Assets

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Where's your wife?" the constituent asked the candidate.

Politicians hear that inquiry so often they're now convinced that wives probably draw as many votes as they do.

So it isn't surprising convention time 1960 finds the political wife in the spotlight as never before.

"Insatiable curiosity about people in politics extends to their private lives and families," says Katie Louchheim, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

It's no secret that a candidate's wife is counted among his political assets, or liabilities.

The wives are in politics whether they want to be or not.

Perhaps, none has taken more happily to the role than Eleanor Roosevelt, who remains in widowhood a powerful reminder of her husband and a lady to be reckoned with in Democratic circles.

The wives have evolved a code of their own. Pat Nixon, wife of the vice president and in the public eye perhaps more than any candidate's wife, long ago announced "I don't answer political questions."

A congressman's wife puts it this way: "I have my own opinions—and they're not always the same as my husband's."

Wives in politics usually dress conservatively.

"If I wore a very unusual hat when I was up on the platform with Charlie, the women in the audience would be looking at my hat instead of listening to what he was saying," says Blanche Halleck, wife of the minority leader, Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Ind).

Their biggest worry is remembering names. If a housewife forgets, it's okay. But when a candidate's wife does it—a vote may fly out the window.

One thing most wives learn early is to be careful of what they say.

Attractive Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of presidential hopeful Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), is a relative newcomer who says she finds it necessary "to weigh every word" lest it cause trouble.

The wives agree that their biggest job is keeping the candidate clicking under the most trying circumstances. Seeing that he eats, gets to the plane on time, sewing on buttons, taking telephone calls, sometimes substituting as secretary to take notes—these are only a sample of their campaigning chores.

Lady Bird Johnson, wife of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), another would-be president, even holds a stop-watch on her husband's speeches.

The wife of every prominent public figure has worked out a role for herself.

Edith Bolling, who married Woodrow Wilson when he was already president, took such a protective and close interest in her husband's activities that she was even accused of running the government during his illness.

She knew the secret code Wilson used to communicate with his aide, Col. Edward M. House, and took over the chore of coding and decoding communications between the two.

Another first lady preferred a front page part—Eleanor Roosevelt.

In the early 1920s, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was involved in lesser government posts, she took an active hand in Democratic party work.

Mrs. Roosevelt is given a large measure of credit for party recognition of the importance of women in political organizations.

During her husband's presidential campaigns, she avoided partisan speeches for him, but urged people to register and vote.

Mrs. Roosevelt also served as her husband's star reporter, bringing him gleanings from her travels and wide contacts with the people.

While Mrs. Roosevelt refused to discuss politics in the fampaign, there's one standout wife who was a whiz at it—Martha Taft, wife of the late Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio).

Some people thought Mrs. Taft was a better campaigner than her husband, who earned the title "Mr. Republican."

She had a talent for making friends with her warm sense of humor and had a surprising talent for thinking on her feet when on campaign speaking tours.

Early this spring, Muriel Humphrey, wife of then presidential hopeful Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), launched a campaign tour on her own. She went on a coffee circuit swing through Wisconsin and West Virginia promoting her husband's primary campaign.

Pat and Dick are the current successors to the Taft team.

But Mrs. Nixon keeps her role strictly to handshaking and small talk. She says she occasionally offers her two cnts worth of advice to the vice president and he appreciates it.

OUT OF THE DEPTHS—What looks like a strange new weapon landing on a hostile beach is actually a Navy experimental device climbing out of the ocean off California. Dubbed RUM (for "remote underwater manipulator"), it is essentially a tank equipped with a long, jointed manipulator arm and hand together with special television cameras. Its purpose is to observe the ocean floor, collect samples and perform other research functions. RUM can operate at depths of 20,000 feet and maintain a speed of three miles an hour.

Negroes Eat In All-White Places in KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Negro college students were served in three all-white eating places in Greater Kansas City Saturday, but at a fourth they were refused service.

Simultaneous demonstrations were begun about noon in two downtown cafeterias, one restaurant in the east part of the city and one in Independence.

Ten Negro youth, accompanied by two white youths, were refused service at the Forum Cafeteria. They remained standing at the check stand, while white customers edged past them in the narrow aisle after being served.

The demonstration was orderly.

W. E. Morrow, an assistant manager, asked the youths to leave when they filed into the serving line at the Forum.

"We have a sign that says we reserve the right not to serve everyone," he said. "And I have orders not to serve them."

The establishments which served the Negroes were Myron-Green cafeteria; Howard Johnson's and the Kelsey Restaurant in Independence.

Lee Swinton, president of the Kansas City chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, announced the demonstrations with emphasis on the Independence restaurant.

"It should be noted that the list includes one in Independence," his statement said. "This is where a former president has recently stated that Missouri has peacefully worked out its integration problem."

His reference was to former President Harry S. Truman of Independence, whose comments on sit-down demonstrations aroused the ire of the NAACP.

A waitress at the Kelsey place in Independence reported 11 Negro youths were served there. She said they sat quietly at a table before they asked to be served. She said the manager told her to serve them after he had calld a lawyer who had advised the owner to serve the group.

Castro Calls

would strengthen materially the Prime Minister's hand. Many also said Khrushchev support could crush growing opposition to Castro in Cuba and perhaps win him new followers among other Latin nations who thus far have remained out of the Washington-Havana conflict.

But some Latin diplomats called Khrushchev's threat of military support a "dangerous two-edged sword."

"His open intervention in Cuban affairs and his declaration that Castro's Cuba is now within the Communist orbit of interest is certain to provoke sharp reaction among Cuban Catholics," said one diplomat. "And I think it is certain to raise strong displeasure of other Catholic nations in Latin America."

American diplomats declined comment on the developments.

In a television appearance Friday night, Castro appeared calmly confident that Cuba would survive and win its economic battle with the United States. He said that the United States must promise before the world not to attack Cuba "before there can be good relations between us."

County Soybean Support to Be $1.81 a Bushel

The price of 1960-crop soybeans will be supported at $1.81 per bushel in Pettis County, Chairman C. A. Staples of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has announced. The local rate is based on a national average support price of $1.85 per bushel, the same as the rate for 1959.

Soybean price support will be carried out as in the past through loans on farm and warehouse-stored soybeans and through purchase agreements. Minimum requirements for support eligibility correspond to requirements for No. 4 soybeans, except for moisture content, which cannot be more than 14 per cent. To be eligible for support under the 1960 operation, soybeans must be produced in 1960.

Loans and purchase agreements will be available from harvest through Jan. 31, 1961. Loans will mature May 31, 1961.

outside nation and of international communism to intervene in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere," the President added.

"There is irony in Mr. Khrushchev's portrayal of the Soviet Union as the protector of the independence of an American nation when viewed against the history of the enslavement of countless other peoples by Soviet imperialism.

"The inter-American system has declared itself on more than one occasion, beginning with the Rio treaty, as opposed to any such interference. We are committed to uphold those agreements."

The commitments to which Eisenhower alluded include, said the White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, the 1947 Rio de Janeiro Treaty, the 1948 Bogota Charter conference which set up the Organization of American States, and the 1954 Caracas agreement.

Hagerty said that in all of those pacts the American republics pledge in substance they will tolerate no outside interference in the Western Hemisphere.

Meanwhile, It was disclosed Saturday that Eisenhower is making plans for a special message to Congress prodding for action on his legislative program. It will be coupled with a warning against runaway election-year spending.

The summer White House was unable to say at this time, however, in what form the President will get his appeal across to Congress when it reconvenes next month.

Boy Survives

tradi, Penns Grove, N.J., joined Hayes in the rescue.

Capt. Clifford Keetch of a Maid of the Mist tourist boat, spotted the boy in the gorge and with the help of three others lifted him from the rough water.

Spectators lined the Maid of the Mist dock when the boy was brought ashore. Hundreds of tourists had watched the dramatic rescue from the falls above.

The boy, crying, kept repeating over and over:

"Where is my sister?"

It was believed then that the girl had perished. But an hour later, he smiled when he was told his sister was safe.

The boy's mother took the news of the capsize and rescue in complete disbelief.

"Over the fall, oh my God," she said. "And that poor other man, they tell us he's been lost."

Honeycutt, a Niagara Power Project employe and a friend of the youngsters father, had taken them for a ride on the river, police said.

Search crews found no trace of the boat immediately.

Riots Hurt Hong Kong Tourist Business

HONG KONG (AP) — Informed sources say the recent riots in Tokyo hurt Hong Kong's tourist business. Many Americans, the biggest tourist spenders in Hong Kong, have canceled planned trips to the Far East because of the turmoil in Japan. U. S. tourists spent about $63,666,550 here last year.

their sick children. This chair was donated by Epsilon Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, and cost $152.65. Charles Edwards, administrator at the hospital, said they need about three more chairs like that one for the ward.

Another thing the hospital would like to have for the room is the colorful cutout plywood characters and animals for the walls.

Stored in one of the chests are the new light weight aluminum bed tables on which to serve the meals that are brought to the young patients on gay white trays with green and red figures of bears, dogs, squirrels, lambs, deer, pigs and other animals and birds.

A lavatory is also in the room, there are floor lamps and the room is air conditioned. Another nice thing for the parents, particularly, the cost is less than in the semi-private rooms that the children formerly had to share with some grown-up, sometimes an elderly person or one quite ill.

Edwards is hoping, too, that someone will see the need for a television and donate one to the room where the little folks can watch their favorite TV shows while they are sick in bed.

The room was shared for the first time by a brother and sister, Kenneth Gorseline, 13, and Donna Fay Gorseline, 9, of Kansas City, who were injured in an automobile accident. So far all the little patients have been in accidents, there have been no tonsillectomy or sick patients, yet. The next patient was Duane Rugen, Route 1, Sedalia, five years old, who got the ends of his fingers nipped off when his hand was caught in a combine. Then in came pretty little Diane Baumgartner, 5 years old, Route 1, Versailles, who hurt her foot when she got it caught in her brother's bicycle. Both have now been dismissed.

Charity Shindig Chokes On Stars' Gutter Jokes

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD — The private morals and deportment of Hollywood are none of my business. The face Hollywood shows to the public is—and it has been so dirt-smudged lately it's time someone blew the whistle before the name of Jack Benny goes down in history as the one who fiddled while Hollywood burned.

Those Roman-style orgies may be with us sooner than we think.

The other night, at a Hollywood charity function, a number of stars attempted to be humorous entertainers with words and lines right out of the gutter. There were jokes, before a mixed audience, about men's rooms, religion, homosexuality, juvenile delinquency, sex, and jokes with a racial kicker.

It wasn't a bit funny, as some stars trying to be funny without writers usually prove.

In trying to amuse each other, it almost seemed as though everyone was seeking a shocker to top that four-letter word an actress used several months ago in responding to an introduction at a formal industry banquet.

Not a bit sorry the morning after this recent charity affair, some of the stars involved protested that this was a private party not for public judgment. It was NOT a private affair.

Members of the Hollywood press were present as guests to report Hollywood's big heart in donating $125,000 (via $100-a-couple tickets) to aid the mental health program of SHARE, a charity for retarded children guided by 63 Hollywood wives.

The way things turned out the mental illness of some of the star entertainers, not the charity, got all the publicity. The way things turned out, SHARE's next charity fund raising might well be given to benefit the mental health of certain Hollywood stars.

Or some of the money, at least, could be set aside to buy soap for the cleansing of certain mouths and the employment of bodyguards for certain bodyguards who confuse public parking lots for private punching alleys.

As disrespectful guests, some of the stars not only clouded the aims and dignity of this worthwhile film charity but also insulted the year-round efforts of the 63 hard - working Hollywood wives who cohosted the party.

These dedicated women deserve public praise and recognition.

But the bad manners of some of their celebrity guests, who do not share the same dedication, kept recognition from those who deserved it.

The bawdy night for sweet charity which turned sour with such lines as a comedian's promise that one of the acts would be Beverly Aadland singing, "My Momma Done Sold Me," came at a time when there is much concern over film censorship. It has been said that some motion pictures are turning films into the lowest form of the arts.

The lowness of some stars at the SHARE affair was in sharp focus.

It is strange indeed that some film celebrities are models of deportment while working on kilm sets, where four-letter words and outhouse humor seldom are heard.

They can maintain dignity as individuals in meeting the public, too. But every time they sit down together in front of half a grapefruit and try to entertain each other, the dialog reeks of a stag party.

This wasn't always so, however. I've attended many large functions in Hollywood and I've never heard an off-color word from stars like Gary Cooper, Clark Gable, Cary Grant and scores of others with a sense of pride about their professions and the film industry.

But today certain stars, with no respect for their profession or the thousands of people the film industry employs, not only lack decent manners but good judgment about their rights to private lives.

In the future, perhaps, Hollywood should arrange for some stars to mail all charitable contributions and avoid charity functions. Instead, they can stay home and trade jokes while pouring their own.

They can even burn down their own homes, if that is their mood.

Let's not burn Hollywood down yet, kids.

And next year let those hard-working SHARE ladies share the headlines all by themselves.

Ken Nagle Cops British Open Title

Aussie Smashes Palmer's Hopes for a Grand Slam

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Ken Nagle, a brawny onetime wood cutter from Australia smashed Arnold Palmer's grand slam hopes Saturday by winning the Centenary British Open Golf Championship with a record-tieing 278. A stirring comeback by the American champion fell one stroke short.

Seven strokes back at the halfway point and four behind going into the postponed final round, Palmer made a fighting charge at it—just as he did to win both the U. S. Masters and Open titles this year.

The 30-year-old American champion from Latrobe, Pa., started with two birdies and finished with two in electrifying spurts which gave him a final round 68—five under par for St. Andrews' formidable Old Course for a 72-hole total of 279.

But Nagle, a balding, imperturbable pro of 39, was not to be shaken off. Playing just behind Palmer, he sank a difficult 10-foot putt for a birdie at the 17th and sent his second shot flying two feet from the cup at the 18th for a seemingly easy birdie. In the excitement of the occasion, he missed the short putt and finished with a 71 for 278.

The final round developed into a two-man battle between Palmer and Nagle as other contenders, one by one, fell from the chase.

Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City, who led through the first two rounds, took a 73 for 282. He tied for third with Harold Henning of South Africa, who shot a closing 69.

Tension was crammed into the final holes.

At the part five 17th, the notorius "road hole" which he had three-putter three days running, Palmer went boldly for the pin only to see his ball roll over the back edge onto the grass at the edge of the road.

He had a difficult chip coming back. After considerable deliberation, he took his putter and sent the ball scurrying through tall grass, over a three-foot embankment to within four feet of the cup.

He sank his putt for a birdie 4—his first of the tournament at that hole. Then at the 18th, with thousands ringing the fairway and green, he boomed a drive 300 yards up the hill, hit a wedge three feet from the pin and sank for a birdie 3.

Nagle was playing the 17th when he heard a roar go up after Palmer's closing birdie putt. At the time he was lying 10 feet from the cup—with a difficult putt for a birdie 4.

"I knew I had to get that putt or a birdie at the last," he said afterward. "The hole had been kind to me all week."

He sank the putt for his birdie. On the 18th, his drive was just over the road crossing the fairway.

Nagle hit a beautiful shot that landed just two feet from the cup. Obviously nervous, he jabbed at his short putt and missed, then judged the winning one home from nine inches.

Nagle won $3,500 in capturing the championship while Palmer was paid $2,520 for second place.

Killebrew's Two Homers Stop Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Harmon Killebrew powered two home runs Saturday as the Washington Senators defeated Baltimore 7-2. The loss was the Orioles' fourth straight and their sixth consecutive setback at home.

Killebrew's second homer of the day came with a man on base during an eighth-inning uprising that broke a 2-all deadlock.

Washington pounded two Baltimore hurlers for two doubles, a triple and a single in addition to Killebrew's four-bag blast in the eighth frame.

Loser Chuck Estrada yielded Killebrew's second homer and three of the other safe blows by the Senators in the big inning, in addition to adding to his troubles with a walk.

Fans Can Also See Scuffles in AFL Tilts

DALLAS (AP) — If players in the American Football League take punches at each other during a game, the fans will see all of the action, says Commissioner Joe Foss.

Foss revealed that the AFL office here had imposed no restrictions on the American Broadcasting Co. for telecasting games nationally this fall.

Pro telecasts in the past have not allowed TV cameras to linger on scuffles.

"Our thinking," explained Foss, "is that the living room fan is entitled to the full production."

St. Louis Pair Cops Tri-State Tennis Title

CINCINNATI — Justina Bricka of St. Louis, national junior indoors single and doubles champ, teamed with Carole Hanks of St. Louis winning the doubles title at the Tri-State Tennis Tournament Saturday.

They defeated Farel Footman of San Francisco and Linda Nein of Middletown, Ohio, 6-3, 6-4.

Hypnosis in Athletics Potentially Dangerous

CHICAGO (AP) — Hypnosis in athletics was branded potentially dangerous Saturday by the American Medical Assn.

Dr. Allan J. Ryan of Meridan, Conn., chairman of the Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports, said many experts in the medical field believe if there are any advantages they are outweighed by the dangers involved.

The use of hypnosis in athletics may aggravate physical impairments of which the athlete is unaware," he said, "Another danger is that an athlete might exceed the limits of his physical ability and become exhausted to the point of harm.

"There is another objection to using hypnosis in an effort to improve performance — it is not good sportsmanship."

Fifth Week of Season Ends

Four Major League Teams In Fine Little League Play

Four Major Little League teams put on a dazzling baseball display Friday to end the fifth week of play. The spectators also got in the act with some very enthusiastic support, which is a great help to all teams.

Make-up play last Saturday netted Jaycees a shutout 5-0 victory over then-ailing Moose. Tommy Hudson continued his fine pitching to win with three strikeouts. Jaycees banged eight hits to Moose's four. Loser Jim Rieger struck out six, and collected two hits, along with Pat Woods in a losing effort. John Kline, Ron Ditzfield, Gary Brashears boosted the winners with doubles. Butch Rozier and Ron Ditzfield got two hits apiece.

A six-run surge in the last inning failed to overtake seven big runs by Optimist in the first inning, as Optimist downed Rotary, 7-6. John Kempton took the win over loser Steve Lewis, and he added four strikeouts and two hits in the effort with help from John Fillicetti with a double. Lewis fanned seven and was supported by doubles from Ronnie Hodges, Dwayne Steele and Doug Dickman. Jim Sparks also added two hits.

At Housel Park, Adco "B" rifled a 13-1 win over Rotary "B" with eight hits, while winner David Brown allowed only one hit. Brown downed six and last inning reliefer Gary Pate downed three. Bob Schilb was tapped for hits by Jim Boss, Clint Dixon and Tony Barnum. Jim Boss and Gary Pate doubled and Tony Barnum tripled in the win. Loser Schilb tripled.

Rotary "A" stopped Adco "A," 14-2, with only four hits. Kinnard McKinney struck out nine in the victory, also adding a triple. Loser Terry Hopper and Bill Kennedy combined for nine strikeouts. David Johnson of Rotary and Anthony Buckner of Adco were the leading hitters. Adco's Mike Riley slugged a triple.

Rotary yielded no independence to Moose Monday by whipping them, 9-2. Ron Hodges posted the win, and Lanny Palmer suffered the loss. Hodges was a leading hitter with two doubles, but Doug Dickman, Jim Sparks, and Steve Lewis also doubled for Rotary. Dave Schlobohm and Steve Rains collected doubles for Moose.

Jaycees outscored Kiwanis, 8-1, with seven big hits. Winner Joe Lamy fanned nine, but loser John Hall turned in eight strikeouts. Joe Lamy doubled and John Kline tripled for the victory security.

Kiwanis "A" was defeated by Elks "A," 11-3. Phillip Sandell was the winning pitcher and also had several hits. Dale Carrier added a couple of hits, including a triple.

At Center, Kiwanis "C" mashed Elks "C," 41-1, with some fine hurling by Ron Imhauser, the winning pitcher. Imhauser also powered two home runs and defensively downed eight of ten men in three innings.

Tuesday, Optimist pinched Adco, 18-2, in four innings, ten hits strong. John McKenzie, the winner, fanned seven men. Hitting support included doubles by Berry Morton, Bill Brown and David Cusick with fine support from Buddy Cusick and Berry Morton. Bobby Pierce and Jim Thomas tried to support loser Tony Murray with doubles. Carl Buckner and John Studer aided Tony Murray on the mound.

Awakened Moose scored its first win in fine style, downing Post 16, 7-6, with six hits. David Schlobohm got the win over loser Danny Downs. Schlobohm and Jim Rieger were hitters for Moose with doubles. Although Schlobohm blanked nine batters, Jim Vinson doubled and tripled, and Danny Downs doubled for Post.

Lions "B" stifled Ice "B," 21-11, with Terry Smith on the mound. Dennis Boehne copped the loss. Rick Kell hit four safeties, Bob Bryant three safeties, and Ken Davidson collected two hits for Ice. Boehne downed seven men. The game was played under protest.

Bill Dotson led Lions "A" past Ice "A," 18-1, with ten strikeouts. Gordon Scott was the loser to Dotson's no-hitter. Lions slammed 14 hits. Robbie Stroemer, Dave Purtle, Mike Rook, Tommy Logan and Bill Dotson all had two or more hits. Jack Rouchka and Tommy Logan tripled, and Mike Rook, Bill Dotson and Frank McGinnis doubled, with two doubles from Robbie Stroemer for the Lions.

Ice "C" filed past Lions "C," 29-3, with six hits. The winner was Dan Wilson with relief from Tracy Younce.

Wednesday, Jaycees moved into third place by downing Post 16, 5-4, in a thriller. Winner Alan McCurdy outdid loser Jerry Dain, allowing only five hits and five strikeouts. Jaycee's 11 hits were collected by Butch Rozier, Ron Ditzfield and Gary Brashears, with a double by Mike McMurdo and a triple by Leo Hudson. Ron Greer doubled for Post, with two hits from Steve Long.

Adco ended Ice's seven-game winning streak, defeating them, 12-2. Fast baller Jim Thomas got the win over Gary Brownfield. Thomas fanned ten, but Jim Sole and Larry Schumaker managed doubles, and Gary Brownfield tripled for Ice. Bobby Reese tripled and Peter Sacco doubled for Adco with help from Steve Cannon and Dean Dawson.

Under protest, Adco "B" defeated Post 16 "B," 17-16. Jim Boss, Tony Barman, winner Gary Pate and Gary Builderstick all doubled, and Clint Dixon tripled for the winners. Charles Goss doubled and tripled and Don Krank, Rena Detrick and John Bentley doubled, while Jerry Morris, Ricky Huddleston, and John Bunch all hit for the winners.

Post 16 "A" topped Jaycees "A," 23-8, behind 19 hits. Winner Ellis Warren had hitting from Bob Ballance, Ken Mitchell, Dan Casey and John Simons in hitting support. Ballance doubled twice, tripled and homered twice for the limelight, John Simons and Jim Lewis also homered. Ken Mitchell tripled twice and Simons doubled for the winner. Terry Hopper got the loss.

Adco "C" tripped Post 16 "C," 22-16, as Dave Miller took the win over loser Richard Ditzfield and Steve Hunt. Roger Cook was a main figure in a fine double play.

Win number nine sounded for the Elks as Sedalia Ice fell prey to an 8-4 defeat. Winner Dwight Hall fanned eight and tripled for Elks. Doubles by Buddy Turner, Ron Phillips with two, and Bob MacDonald helped defeat loser Larry Schumaker. Claude Griffin and Jim Sole doubled for Ice.

In a sluggish game, Optimist slammed Lions with a 31-1 romp behind 26 hits. Winner John Fillicetti doubled twice, along with hits by Berry Morton, Buddy Cusick and Bill Brown—all of whom doubled. Morton added a bases loaded triple. The Lions never gave up behind Mike Wingate or Leonard Poindexter. Jack Simpkins hit well for the Lions.

Moose "B" tamed Optimist "B," 29-5, with 15 hits. David Moore was the winner over loser Sam Moore. Larry Nevill, Charles Garrett, Earl Gerke with three hits, and Dennis Carr led the 15-hit attack. Gerke, Chuck Christal and Garrett doubled, and Nevill tripled for Moose.

Moose "A" defeated Optimist "A," 14-8. Burke, Burger and Petree got good hits. Burger and Becktel doubled, and Petree tripled. Loser Dave Johnson tripled in his own support.

The Moose "C" vs. Optimist "C" game score was not available at press time.

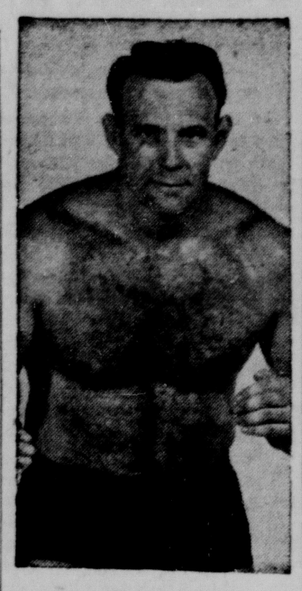

Bouncing back from a 31-1 loss in grand fashion, Lions defeated Kiwanis, 12-11. Winner Jack Simpkins collected nine strikeouts to overshadow the seven strikeouts of loser Mark Orensmeyer. For Lions, little Jim Ross pounded a centerfield homer with one mate aboard, while Terry Waisner, Jack Simpkins, and Mike Wingate doubled and Simpkins tripled. Mark Orensmeyer doubled twice, and Carl Visentin once for the losers.

In an action-packed game, the Elks slid past Rotary in a comeback fight, 8-7, behind nine hits. Kirk Johnson notched the victory over Steve Lewis. Johnson filed eight back to the dugout, but loser Lewis fanned 11. Ronnie Phillips had his second four-for-four night, including two doubles. Bob McDonald tripled, and Larry Arnette and Dwight Hall also hit well. Doug Dickman gathered four hits, and Woody Creighead two for Rotary, while Jim Sparks doubled and Ronnie Hodges tripled.

At Housel, Jaycees "B" cleaned Rotary "B," 19-9, with winner Charles Evans knocking three hits. Foster Green, Martin Hogan and Terry Prisondorf all added two hits to an 11-hit barrage.

Jaycees "A" defeated Rotary "A," 11-8, on merely three hits and many walks. Ken Brock got the victory credit, but was helped by Homer Shackles. Charles Dotson tripled off loser David Johnson, who was relieved by Kinnard McKinney and Cecil Schick.

In "C" team action, Rotary downed the Jaycees, 17-1. Mark Wanserski was the winner, backed up by several fine hits.

Thor Hagen

Hagen Will Put Crown On the Line

Central States wrestling champion Thor Hagen will put his recently-won crown on the line here Tuesday night when he meets the challenge of burly Bob Orton, the huge Kansan whose unorthodox tactics have often landed him in hot water.

A mixed tag scrap is also on tap, with Judy Glover joining Farmer Pete against Jessica Rogers and her midget partner, Cowboy Bradley.

Another team event is planned for the Convention Hall crowd, with Rogers siding with Kathy Starr against Glover and Millie Stafford.

In addition, the two midgets, Bradley and Pete, will go through their paces in a separate match.

The meeting here will mark the first defense of Hagen's crown against the rugged Orton. The fast Viking is confident he can retain the crown and post a convincing victory over Orton. Hagen figured he'd met his biggest task successfully when he turned back Lee Henning for the championship and then repeated a week later. Since that time he has been active both in the gym and in the ring.

Added offensive measure give him a well rounded attack and he contends he's fully able to take care of himself against anyone in the ring today.

With the girls and midgets on the card it's certain there will be a lively pace in non-title action. Starr and Glover are two rough rivals who go full blast every moment they are in the ring, promising some rousing scrapping.

White Sox Score Early To Rip Tribe

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox scored all their runs in the first two innings Saturday to sweep their fourth straight victory from the Cleveland Indians 8-4 and replace Baltimore in third place.

The American League champions came within ½ game of second-place Cleveland 3½ games of pace-setting New York. Baltimore lost to Washington and the Yankees were defeated by Boston.

After the Indians rapped Herb Score for two runs in the first inning, the Sox teed off on Ted Bowsfield and Johnny Briggs for five runs on five hits, including a two-run double by Roy Sievers and a triple by Gene Freese.

The Sox scored three more runs in the second off Barry Latman, with Al Smith driving across two with a bases-filled double.

To Trans-Mississippi Golf Tourney On Wichita Course

Vic VanDyne, Route 4, journeys to Wichita today to compete in the 57th Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament. The tournament, which starts Monday and Tuesday with an 18-hole qualifying round each day, is at Wichita Country Club, where par is 70 on a 6,615-yard layout. There are three tournament divisions, and match play in each starts Wednesday.

Many of the country's top amateurs are entered, including Dean Beman, last year's Trans-Miss. champion, who recently beat out Bob Cochran of St. Louis for the British amateur crown, and Juan Estrada, former North Texas State star who holds the Mexican amateur championship. Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma football coach, will play in the junior-senior flight for ages 45-55. Phil Harris, Jack House, Bobby Dare, Tom Garrity, Jerry Krause, Dick Crawford and Jimmy Jackson, twice a member of the Walker Cup team and a double winner of the Trans, are also among the entries.

Twenty-year-old VanDyne, a member of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Assn., will be making his debut in this tournament. His most recent accomplishment in other tournament play was in the Missouri State Amateur, in which he edged top-ranked Jim Tom Blair, III, one-up on the 18th hole. In the following match he barely missed scoring one of the biggest twin upsets in the tournament's history by losing to Dr. Paul Leslie, one-up, on the 19th hole.

Other achievements include first place in the championship flight in the Lebanon Tournament May 29. 93 were entered in this contest. He was fourth lowest amateur in a pro-amateur tournament at Lake Quivira, Kan., held early in May, and runnerup in the Sedalia Country Club Medal Play Championship Memorial Day.

For the past three years Vic has taken lessons under Leland 'Duke' Gibson, professional at Blue Hills Country Club, Kansas City.

VanDyne plans a professional golf career after finishing college.

Banks' Blast Lifts Cubs Past Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ernie Banks' towering 12th inning home run and Don Elston's brilliant relief pitching carried the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 victory over San Francisco Saturday. It was the fifth consecutive loss for the Giants.

Banks 26th homer came off Johnny Antonelli who had taken the mound in the seventh. Elston, in winning his fifth game, gave up two hits in the five innings he worked. The loss dropped the Giants into fifth place.

Willie Mays doubled in the 12th but Orlando Cepeda was called out on strikes to end the 3-hour, 45-minute game.

The Cubs collected 16 hits off three Giants pitchers. The Giants got 10 hits.

Pinch Hitters Pull Redlegs Past Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Pinch hits by Willie Jones and Dutch Dotters in the ninth and tenth innings gave the Cincinnati Reds an uphill 6-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday.

Jones' double in the ninth drove in Harry Anderson with the tying run. In the tenth, with Warren Spahn on the mound for the Braves, Frank Robinson singled, Ed Bailey walked and Dotterer singled home the decisive marker for the Redlegs. The victory for reliever Bob Grim broke a five-game losing streak for Cincinnati.

The Braves hit starter Don Newcombe hard and held a 5-3 lead after seven innings.

Wertz Slugs Red Sox Past Yanks, Coates

BOSTON (AP) — Boston slugger Vic Wertz pierced the invincibility of New York ace Jim Coates Saturday by driving in four runs with a homer, double and single as the Red Sox defeated the American League leaders 6-5.

The defeat was the first in 14 decisions for Coates extending over a two-year period and only the second in 17 major league verdicts.

However, it took a dramatic finish by Red Sox rookie Southpaw Tom Borland to stem a New York uprising with two out in the ninth inning. Pinch hitter Yogi Berra homered and Gil McDougald and Hector Lopez singled in order. Then Borland was summoned to replace Mike Fornieles and made Mickey Mantle pop up.

Wertz's first homer, a second-inning solo shot, began a Boston comeback from a 3-0 deficit. His two-run double in the third put the home forces ahead to stay, 4-3.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A field of 197—largest ever for a major golf tournament in the United States—will compete in the 42nd Professional Golfers' Assn. championship at the Firestone Country Club.

So bulky is the lineup—including 18 former champions, Masters and Open Champion Arnold Palmer and all the other big names of U.S. pro golf—that the first threesome will tee off on the opening round at a shuddering 6:30 a.m., EDT, on Thursday, July 21.

Tigers Jump on Hall Early for 6-1 Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Detroit's Tigers won their first game of the year at Municipal Stadium, Saturday night, beating the Kansas City Athletics 6-1 with the help of a triple by Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito's 15th home run in the first inning.

The Tigers, who had won only three of their first 12 games against the impotent A's, knocked out Dick Hall, the Kansas City starting hurler with their four-run blast in the initial inning. Hall started by walking both Eddie Yost and Frank Bolling before Cash unloaded his three bagger. Al Kaline brought Cash in with a sacrifice fly before Colavito poked his homer over the left field wall.

Lefthander Pete Burnside held the A's in check with a five hit performance and had a shutout until the eighth inning. Then Jerry Lumpe tripled and scored on an infield out.

The Tigers scored two more runs in the fifth inning off Bob Trowbridge, who had succeeded Hall.

Wall Wins $27,000 Canadian Open Title

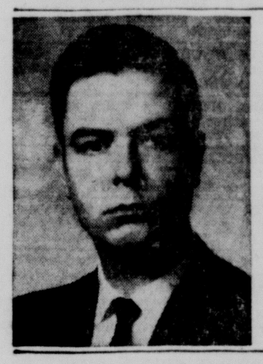

TRONTO (AP) — Art Wall Jr., back in the form that carried him to the 1959 Masters title and top money winning honors, Saturday won the $27,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship with a 19-under-par 269 for 72 holes.

The 36-year-old Pocono Manor, Pa., pro wrapped up the title with a 3-under-par 69 after rain had held up play at the St. George's Club nearly two hours.

Wall, handicapped much of this year with a bad back, went into the final round with a three-stroke lead. He wound up six in front as Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., tied for second at 275.

Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., and 48-year-old Sam Snead, both of whom were within four strokes of Wall at the start of the final 18 skidded to 77s and 281s.

Johnson Cracks Decathlon Mark Of 8,357 Points

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Rafer Johnson uncorked a 233-foot, 3-inch javelin throw Saturday and cracked the recognized world decathlon record of 8,357 points set by Russia's Vasily Kuznetsov last year.

It was a sensational comeback for Johnson, who was sidelined by automobile accident injuries last year.

When he made his long throw, it boosted his total in the National AAU decathlon meet here to 8,483 points—and this with one, event still to go. That was the 1,500 meter run.

The 200-pound, 6-foot-3, Johnson, who held the world record before Kuznetsov took it away last year, made his big throw on his first attempt in the javelin event. At that point, he had bettered the Russian's performance in seven of the nine events then completed.

Johnson ran the high hurdles in :14.5 and threw the discus 170 feet, 6½ inches, and compiled 6,730 points up to that point, well ahead of the Russian total at that time.

C. K. Yang, the defending AAU champ from Formosa, continued as runnerup with 6,330 points. Dave Edstrom of the University of Oregon, limping from a pulled leg muscle had 6,012 points.

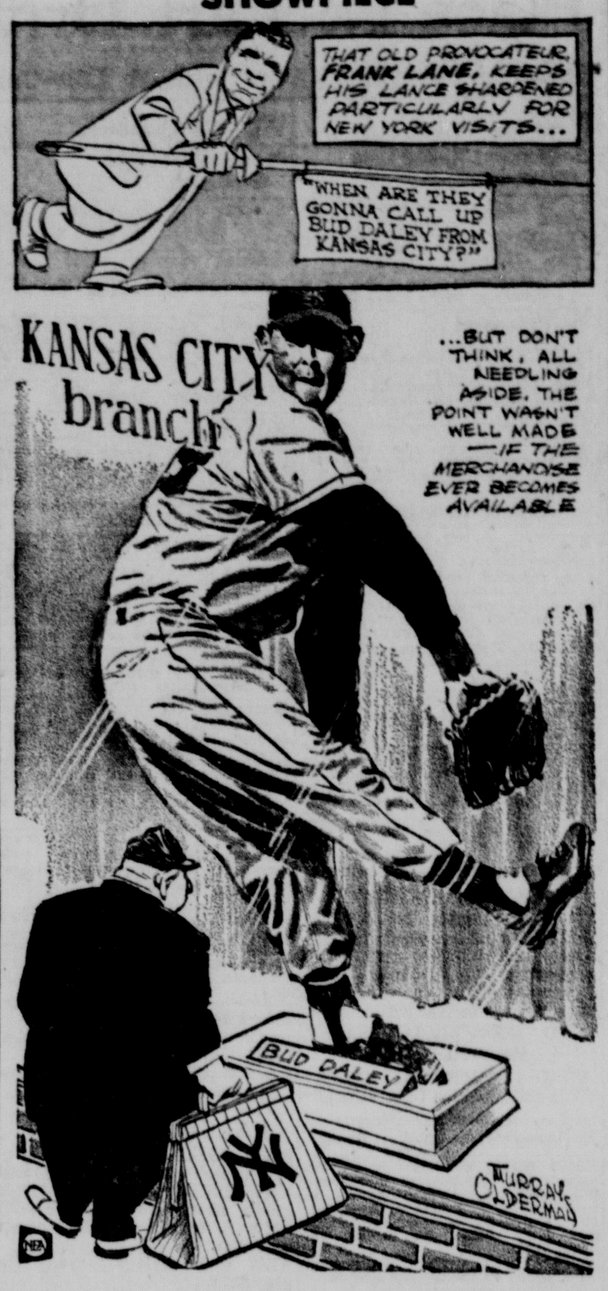

Alley Sets World Record With Javelin

WEST CHESTER, Pa., (AP) — Bill Alley, a member of the U. S. Olympic team, set a world record Saturday by throwing the javelin 283 feet, 8 inches.

Alley, whose home is in Short Hills, N. J., is a student at the University of Kansas. He broke the record of 282 feet set last year by Al Cantello, of Norristown, N. J. Alley made his record toss at an AAU meet sponsored by the West Chester Athletic club.

His record will be submitted to the national AAU for official approval.

Capacity Crowd Is Assured

All-Star Game Makes First Visit to Kansas City Monday

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The major league All-Star game, a mid-season fixture since 1933, makes its first visit to this American League City Monday with a capacity crowd of 30,611 assured at Municipal Stadium.

This is the second year the classic has been scheduled as a two-game series. The second game will be played at Yankee Stadium in New York Wednesday. The All-Stars split last season. The National League won the first game, at Pittsburgh, and the American, which leads in the series 16-11, took the second at Los Angeles.

Probable pitchers and batting order won't be announced until noon Sunday, and even that may be a little early for the opposing managers — Walt Alston of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, and Al Lopez, of the American League champion Chicago White Sox—to pick their pitchers.

Left-hander Bud Daley of Kansas City, the majors' leading winner, figured to be Lopez' choice for a starter. But Daley will be shooting for his 13th victory Sunday for the A's and thus likely will start Wednesday's game.

Camilo Pascual of Washington, thought to be the No. 2 choice for the AL, withdrew Friday because of arm trouble.

The NL starter probably will be Larry Jackson, St. Louis right-hander.

The NL starting line-up is predominently right-handed with only third baseman Eddie Mathews and left fielder Bob Skinner batting from the left side. Joe Adcock at first, Bill Mazeroski at second, Ernie Banks at short, Del Crandall behind the plate, and willie Mays and Henry Aaron in the outfield all bat right-handed

There are three left-handed hitters in the AL starting line-up plus switch hitting Mickey Mantle. They are catcher Yogi Berra, right fielder Roger Maris, and second baseman Peter Runnels. The right-handers are Bill Skowron at first, Ronnie Hansen at short, Frank Malzone at third and Minnie Minoso in left.

The Kansas City game scheduled to start at 2 p.m. (EST) will be seen and heard nationally on NBC-TV and radio. The Wednesday game at New York starts at noon, EST, with again NBC-TV-radio coverage.

Phillies Slip Past Pirates And Law 2-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pancho Herrera's ninth-inning single drove in Tony Taylor, who had tripled, to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory Saturday night over the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

Gene Conely pitched a four-hitter for his sixth victory against four defeats. He battled Vernon Law who lost his fourth game against 11 victories.

Conley scored the first run. He doubled in the sixth inning and scored when third baseman Don Hoak muffed Lee Walls' grounder.

The Pirates tied it up in the bottom of the seventh on Rocky Nelson's single and Smokey Burgess' double.

The 36 - year -old Atlanta, Ga., sharpshooter fired a 70 Saturday following her 72 and 71 of the previous two days, over Trumbull Country Club's 6,246-yard par 73 course.

Veteran Patty Berg of Chicago was one under par with 72 for a 218 total, which tied her for second place with Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis., who carded a 75.

Navy Varsity Wins Olympic Rowing Trials

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Navy's varsity eight came on like a torpedo boat in the last 500 meters Saturday and won the Olympic rowing trials and a trip to Rome.

The husky middies, in their first year under 39-year-old coach Lou Lindsey, collared Syracuse at the 1,500-meter mark and then streaked to a length triumph over California's favored Golden Bears.

The Syracuse Alumni Rowing Assn. was third and the scrappy Navy plebes fourth and last.

It was a smashing climax to a brilliant day of rowing that decided Uncle Sam's seven entries in the games at Rome this summer.

Lindsey, a former California coxswain thus earned the position as head coach of the American Olympic Rowing team.

In the small boat competition, the Lake Washington Rowing Club of Seattle, manned by U. of Washington students and graduates, took four berths.

The Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia captured the other two—the singles sculls with Navy Lt. Harry Parker, and the double sculls with veteran Jack Kelly Jr., and Bill Knecht. This will be the fourth Olympics for Kelly, 33-year-old brother of Princess Grace of Monaco.

Lake Washington won the pairs with and without coxswain and the fours with and without coxswain. The Seattle rowers hit for four out of five, losing only the single sculls.

Less than a length and a half separated all four eight-oared shells as they crossed the finish line in another thriller on slightly rippled Onondage Lake.

Navy, stroked by Lyman Perry, grabbed the lead at the 1,500-meter mark and majestically steamed ahead to victory. Navy admirals in the grandstand tossed their gold braided hats into the air and thumped coach Lindsey on the back.

California, which had dropped back to last 200 meters from home, picked up steam to take second place.

Navy's time was 6:46.0, followed by California 6:50.1, Syracuse Alumni 6:51.7, and the Navy plebes 6:51.8.

Judy Bell Wins Third Colorado Springs Crown

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Judy Bell, 23-year-old Wichita University coed, became the second woman ever to win the Colorado Springs Invitational golf tournament three times Saturday by dethroning defending champion Natasha Matson, 1-up.

Miss Bell closed out the match on the final hole of the 36-hole duel after once leading by a margin of 4-up.

In her first tourney appearance here in two years, she made it two in a row over Miss Matson, 22, also of Wichita. Miss Bell won the 1958 title with a 6 and 5 triumph over her tall blonde opponent.

Miss Bell also won the 1957 crown. The only previous three-time winner at the 6,230-yard Broadmoor course was the late Babe Didrickson Zaharias, who took the crown in 1945 - 46 - 47.

Miss Matson's medal play was brilliant. She finished with a 5-under-par 75, matching her medalist score earlier in the week. Miss Bell carded a 79.

The tow traded 1-up leads during the morning round, with Miss Bell on top at the halfway point. She then won three of the first four holes in the afternoon session to grab the lead, 4-up.

Miss Matson won the 23rd and 24th holes to halve her deficit, then was only one back as she sandwiched the 31st and 33rd holes around Miss Bell's victory on the 32nd.

They halved 34 and 35 to set the stage for the closeout.

Miss Bell dropped a 10-foot putt for a par 5 while Miss Matson was only a foot away from the hole with her fourth stroke.

St. Louis Youth Cops Valley Tennis Title

OMAHA (AP) — Jim Parker, 17-year-old high school student from St. Louis, turned back the popular Billy Higgins, 18, of Lawton, Okla., Saturday to take the Missouri Valley Junior Tennis Tournament's top award—the junior boys' crown.

Parker, second seeded, blasted Higgins, 6-2, 10-8, 6-0, after Higgins, unseeded, became a crowd favorite with upsets over third seeded Claude Bakwell Jr., and defeating champion Clifford Buchholz, both of St. Louis. Parker also won the sportsmanship trophy.

Top seeded Karen Moser of Waterloo, 17-year-old Iowa State high school champion, breezed past Carol Johnson, 14, of Kirkwood, Mo., 6-1, 6-0, for the girls' 18 crown.

Higgins and Bob McKenna of Chickasha, Okla., won the junior doubles title by default from Parker and Davis Moss of Granite City, Ill., when Moss was forced to return home before the match could be played.

Ex-Joplin Golf Pro Acquitted of Arson

JOPLIN, Mo., (AP) — Robert C. (Speck) Riggs, 40, former Joplin golf pro, was ecquitted of an arson charge Saturday by a circuit court jury.

Riggs was accused of setting fire to the Schifferdecker Municipal Golf Course club house last Oct. 23.

Testifying in his own defense Saturday, Riggs emphatically denied setting the fire. He pointed out that he sustained loss in the fire of golf merchandise valued at about $1,500 and nine trophies he had won in various golf tournaments. He testified his loss was not insured.

The prosecution based its case on circumstantial evidence. The trial began Thursday.

Steel Business Comeback Is Week's Big Question

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The big question in business this week is: When will the steel industry make its comeback and how substantial will it be?

Steel holds a vital key to how the nation's economy goes in the second half of this year.

The industry's output this week was estimated at 42.7 per cent of capacity, the lowest rate for a non-strike week since July 3, 1939. The reasons: The July 4 holiday, plant-wide vacations, repair and rebuilding work and low rate of new orders.

Steelmakers looked for an upturn in August but indications were that it wouldn't be as steep as had been anticipated. At that time, the automobile companies will be stepping up their oders for 1961 models but inventory cutting by other users is expected to continue.

The trade publication Iron Age said all hopes of a record production this year have faded. When the year began, estimates of output ranged up to 130 million tons, well above the record of 117 million in 1955. The absolute best that can be hoped for is 115 million, said Iron Age.

Although the steel situation seemed cloudy, there were bright sides to the economic picture.

One of the most notable was in the automobile industry, whose new passenger car sales for the first six months of the year were the best for the period since record 1955.

Sales totaled 3,253,132, compared with 2,936,135 last year and 3,851,900 in 1955. The compacts the big factor in the fine showing, grabbing 25 per cent of the market.

June sales of 593,600 cars were the best for any month since August 1955.

The July 4 holiday and a strike at Ford Motor Co.'s Cleveland stamping firm caused this week's production to plummet to an estimated 90,000 cars from 123,624 last week and 123,147 a year ago.

The nation's total production of goods and services ran at an annual rate of 503 billion dollars — an all-time high — in the second quarter.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank, surveying business as the second half of the year began, found the economy on a high plateau with the outlook for further expansion remaining favorable.

Especially encouraging, it said, are companies' plans for expanded capital outlays.

The business world had its eyes on two widely separated spots, Los Angeles and Cuba.

In Los Angeles, the Democrats were getting ready to pick a candidate for president and already were at work on their platform. Representatives of business, farmers and labor were trying to get into the platform planks favorable to their interests.

In Cuba, American sugar mills were expected to be the next targets for seizure by Fidel Castro's government in the wake of President Eisenhower's cutting of the Cuban sugar quota by 700,000 tons.

Despite the virtual wiping out of Cuban sugar sales to this country, there appeared no need for housewives to worry about a shortage. Word is that supplies are ample. Argentina, for example, said it has 360,000 tons available for export.

Retail trade continued brisk, running up gains of up to six per cent over a year ago. Summer sales and warm weather were inspirations to shoppers.

Stock sales on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to 11,816,430 shares compared with 14,820,464 last week and 18,719,665 a year ago. Bond sales were $20,348,500 par value compared with $24,883,000 last week and $29,128,000 a year ago.

Briefly around the business scene: American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters, Inc., sold its 35 per cent interest in Disneyland, California amusement park, for $7,500,000; paid $500,000 in 1954. . . . The Export-Import bank loaned Japan 40 million dollars to buy U.S. cotton. . . . ACF Industries, Inc., is testing a railway car which may be the forerunner of a fleet of mobile launchers for inter-Continental missiles . . Cigarette sales last year would have supplied every American over 15 years old with 186 packs.

GARY DEAN LOBAUGH, 18, 311 East 11th Street, left June 29 for Ft. Leonard Wood where he will receive his basic training for the Army. Lobaugh volunteered for induction.

Plant Life Killed By Ammonia

WYACONDA, Mo. (AP) — An ammonia fog appeared today to have killed most plant life in about half of this town of 480. Grass and other foliage has turned brown and many trees appear to be dying.

Nine persons were overcome and some 200 were routed from their homes early Thursday when ammonia fumes from a leaking truck of anhydrous ammonia at a fertilizer plant settled over a wide area.

A number of cattle, hogs and chickens are ill from the effects. Vegetable and flower gardens were destroyed.

"Everything is turning brown just as if there had been a hard freeze," said Mrs. Charles Allerton, wife of the mayor. "The tops of the taller trees are still green but the lower parts, where the fumes hung close to the ground, are brown."

Residents were disposing of all food and clothing exposed to the fumes. Apples and other fruit, even grapes, turned a deep shade of brown after exposure.

A veterinarian inspected 23 head of cattle that became ill on the farm of Richard Mathes, at the edge of town, and said they apparently will recover unless pneumonia develops. Forty acres of alfalfa, ready for harvest on the farm of Irving Lasrenz, was ruined.

Still in a hospital at nearby Keokuk, Iowa, are the Wyaconda telephone operator, Miss Myrtle Prickett, 50, and her mother, Mrs. Sadie Prickett, 70. Miss Prickett remained at the switchboard in her home during the emergency until she lost her voice from effects of the fumes.

Mayor Allerton turned on the town's fire siren at 1 a.m. Thursday to alert residents to the danger. About half of the residents fled from their homes, some in night clothing and barefoot.

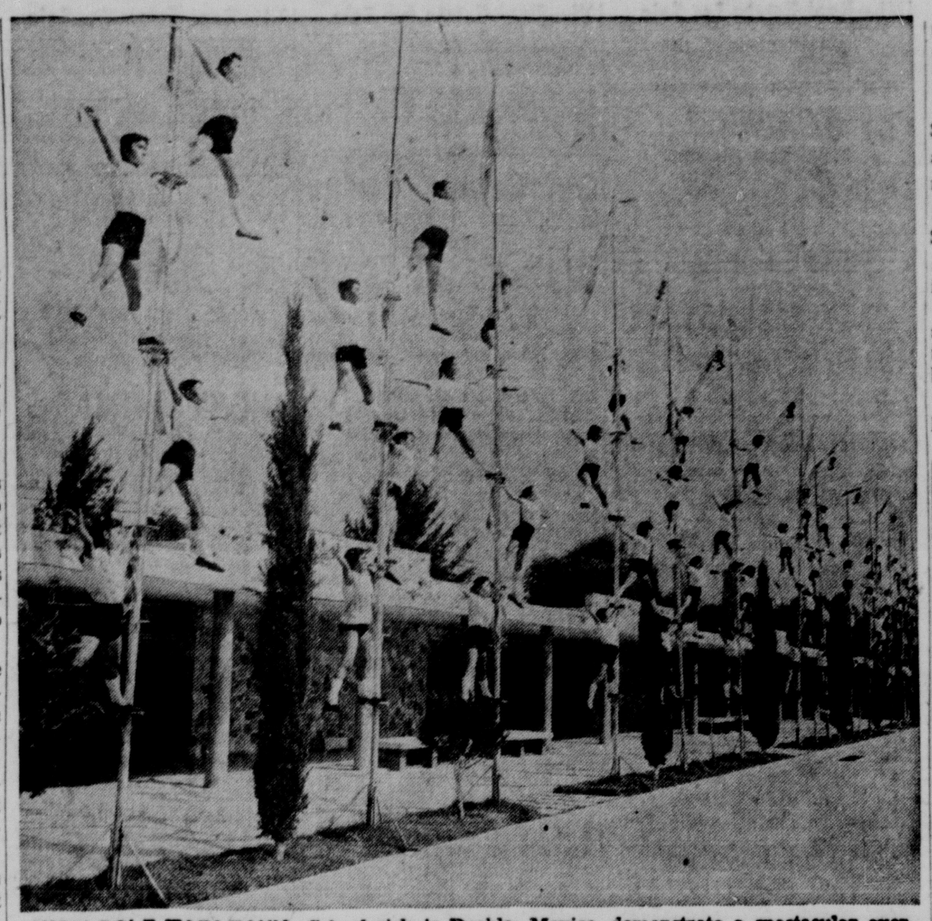

The tank truck was unloading the ammonia when the leak developed. The ammonia, compressed in liquid form, became a gas as it escaped.

A steady rain fell in Wyaconda this morning, giving hope that any residue from the ammonia might be washed away in time to save some of the trees.

Houstonia Baptists Bible School Closes

The First Baptist Church of Houstonia recently completed vacation Bible school with commencement services on Sunday night. There were 67 enrolled with an average attendance of 60. More than 40 of these attended the full two weeks without missing a day.

Some beautiful and useful pieces of handiwork were turned out by all age groups through their creative activity time.

Mrs. Shirley Hernandez served as vacation Bible school principal and under her leadership ten teachers completed the book, "Better Vacation Bible School." Rev. Henry Hansen of the Emett Avenue Baptist Church of Sedalia taught the book. Each of the teachers spent more than 7½ hours studying their textbooks before Bible school started.

The teachers were: Nursery, Mrs. James Eads and Mrs. Paul Griffith; beginners, Mrs. Bill Scouten, superintendent, and Miss Jacquelyn Williams and Mrs Robert Begotner; primary, Mrs. Clyde Betchel, superintendent, Mrs. Donald Arnett and Mrs. Alvin Cox; juniors, Mrs. Lawrence Pummill, superintendent, Mrs. Anna Tagtmeyer and Mrs. Ed Carver; intermediates, Mrs. Harold Williams, superintendent, and Miss June Dewitt.

Mrs. John Bell had charge of the handicraft, Miss Janice Williams was pianist, Mrs. Bill Harding was secretary, and Mrs. Lawrence Pummill led the singing. At the closing of the school the group enjoyed a picnic at Howard Park.

Counterfeit Warning Issued In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Secret Service has warned the St. Louis area about counterfeit $20 bills, noting that more than 1,200 in phony $20 notes have appeared in St. Louis banks in four weeks. A similar warning has been issued in Kansas City.

Special Agent Garry W. Stigall said Friday most of the fake bills turned up in deposits of small business firms.

He said counterfeit $100 bill — probably passed by the same ring —appeared in deposits at two St. Louis banks Friday.

The bills are of poor quality and readily detectable as counterfeits, Stigall said.

Parking Meter Coins Pay For Sedalia Parking Lots

Some People Dislike Paying Quarter Fines

By RALPH JONES

A few weeks ago a Sedalia businessman walked into the police station and paid off 21 one-dollar bonds for overparking tickets. The next day he started all over, and by the end of the month had received 16 tickets. Again he paid off.

Another businessman accumulated 18 overparking tickets before a warrant was issued for his arrest, then he paid off. He received about the same amount of tickets the following month and got mad. He threatened to take the case to court, claiming parking tickets are illegal—that they violate the city anti-litter ordinance!

He "blew his top," according to information from sources near the police station, but when it was explained that the anti-litter ordinance applies to littering streets, and not to littering cars, the man paid off.

Forunately, according to traffic clerk U. L. Howerton, these "repeaters" can be counted on the fingers on one hand. The average citizen, after receiving the red overparking ticket, places the required 25-cent coin in the envelope, places the envelope in one of the convenient receptacles within 24 hours, and the matter is forgotten.

Even though the one-cent coin is not worth much on today's market, it can prevent any of the above incidents from happening, if the owner places it in the parking meter coin slot and turns the handle—for 6 minutes at least.

It is impossible to tell just how many people park at Sedalia meters each day, but an average of 125 people overpark, and pay the 25-cent fee. About seven fail to pay the fee within 24 hours, and post $1 bonds to appear in court, then forget the whole thing.

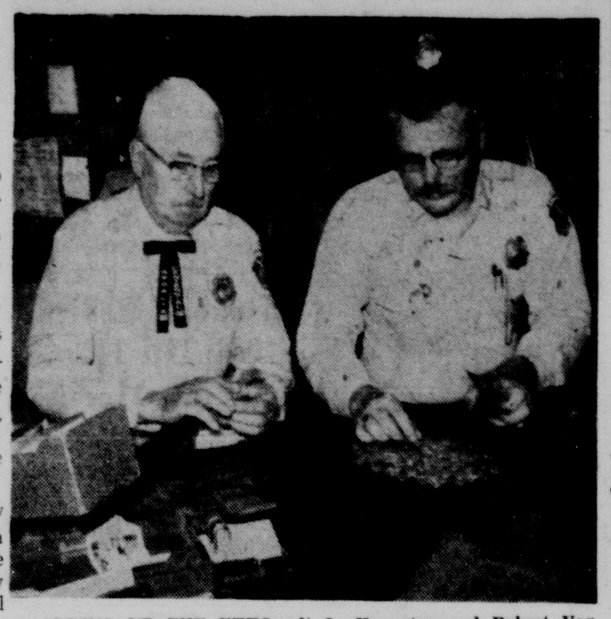

There is one thing parkers should not forget, however, and that is that the meters themselves, their upkeep, the salaries of the meter attendants, plus the construction and upkeep of Sedalia's ten off-street parking lots are paid for out of an expected $80,000 revenue from the city's 1,128 parking meters.

This revenue is from the meters alone, with the exception of a small portion of one-dollar fees collected. The receipts, after they have been tabulated, are deposited to the credit of the parking committee to pay off the revenue bonds sold to construct the new parking lots.

Sedalia is noted throughout Missouri as being one of the first cities of comparable size to complete an adequate parking lot program, according to Harry Naugel, chairman of the parking committee. Under the plan ten lots have been completed and are in use, and an additional lot is to be completed this summer.

The meters in Sedalia are paying off the cost of the lots, and patrons are happy to have a convenient place to park. The meters themselves are as varied as the people who use them.

You can park for 12 minutes or 14 hours, depending on how much money you place in the meter. Take your choice.

ADDING UP THE FEES -- U. L. Howerton and Robert Vogler add up the 25-cent fees paid for one day's overparking... About 125 people daily overpark in Sedalia and pay the 25-cent fee. About seven fail to pay within 24 hours and are charged a dollar.

THE LONG ARM of the law reaches out to give an overparker a ticket. Robert Vogler, complete with Centennial mustache says he writes dozens of such tickets daily. The recipient may place a 25-cent coin in the envelope, place the envelope in one of the nearby receptables and escape further action.

A FAMILAR SIGHT -- One of the parking meter department's two closed scooters used to check more than 1,000 meters in Sedalia. This vehicle is used by Robert Vogler. Larry Gardner the other meterman, uses the other. U. L. Howerton, traffic clerk, has been seen riding as a passenger.

COIN PICKUP -- James Green and Larry Gardner make coin pick-ups from Sedalia's on-street parking meters each week, and from the off-street lots each month. The cylindrical container holds about $800 in assorted coins. It weighs some 300 pounds when full.

AUTOMATION -- Coins picked up from parking meters are turned in to the counting room at the police station, where they are automatically sorted, counted and rolled into containers by James Green. Above is the counting machine in operation. (Democrat-Capital photos)

Mora's Horse-drawn Mail Hack To End Up In Postal Museum

THE LAST RUN—Last week the Mora postmaster received instructions to ship this mail hack to the museum being established in Washington by the Post Office Department. A team of horses was borrowed from Wilbert Hobien, a nearby farmer. Mrs. Lola Stearman, rural carrier who used the hack 33 years ago, shouldered her mail sack to begin her rounds. The run never came off, because just after this photo wa taken, Mrs. Stearman decided she had better use her 1957 car after all. Keeping the horses quiet is postmaster Alvin Kroenke.

This week marked the end of the road for a horse-drawn "mail hack" owned by the Mora post office for the past 33 years.

The carriage was hooked up as if to make its last run, but it failed to get out of town. Mrs. Lola Stearman, who has been the rural carrier for the past 33 years, decided she had better use her 1957 sedan to make the run.

The rickety old carriage has not seen its best days, however. Some time ago the Post Office Department got wind of the vehicle's existence and last week the Mora postmaster, Alvin Knoenke, received orders to ship the vehicle to the nation's capital, where it will be placed in a Postal Museum, now being established by the Post Office Department.

Mrs. Stearman became rural carrier in July, 1927, and at that time the post office bought the old hack from the retiring carrier. For many years she used it to make her daily rounds, then progressed to Model T Fords and on to newer cars from year to year.

Her route in the horse-drawn hack used to take Mrs. Stearman all day, but her modern car now takes her around in about three hours—even in bad weather. She spends the rest of her working time sorting mail. The route carries her to 92 mail boxes, serving 325 people.

Mora is a small town, located three miles east of Highway 65 just south of the Pettis - Benton County line. It has changed little in the past 33 years, according to Mrs. Stearman, who knows everyone in the area.

When asked what the 1960 census for the town was, Postmaster Kroenke began counting by twos and threes and ended up at 33. "Yep," he smiled, "That's how many people we've got."

Mrs. Stearman, now 56, has one daughter and five grandchildren, all living on her route. Mr. Stearman, who formerly operated a store in Mora, has retired. Mrs. Stearman can retire soon, but she may not.

She likes her work.

LIKES HER WORK—For the past 33 years Mrs. Lola Stearman has been sorting out the mail in these same mail boxes. She is the rural carier of the Mora Post Office. The mailbag, center, is not a fixture. She often uses it to make her regular rounds.

THE NEW WAY—Carrying the mail on her regular route out of the Mora Post Office is a lot easier for Mrs. Lola Stearman. Thirty-three years ago she used horses and buggies. Today she uses a 1957 car. (Democrat-Capital photos)

Abominable Snowman Is Entrancing To Perkins

By EDWARD KITCH

CHICAGO (AP) — The Abominable Snowman of the Himalayas is an alluring enigma to zoo-man R. Marlin Perkins.

So the director of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo has accepted an invitation to join Sir Edmund Hillary on an expedition to the Himalayan Mountains.

Hillary, world-famed adventurer and conqueror of Mt. Everest, will lead a party of 14 scientists and explorers into Nepal in September. Perkins will serve the expedition as zoologist.

"The reason I'm interested," he says, "is that something in the Himalayas leaves strange foot tracks.

"They have been photographed and are different from any known thing. Zoologists can't identify the tracks or the creature, so it bears investigation."

The mysterious tracks have been reported by native Sherpa and Yeti tribesmen in Nepal and in mountain passes in Tibet. One Sherpa claims to have seen the creature. He described it as "very tall" and standing "on its hind feet."

The snowman's body, except the face, is reported covered with thick, reddish brown hair. Descriptions of the tracks vary from four-toed and 8 inches long to five toed and 12 inches long. The creature's height is variously described as average man-size to eight feet tall.

The Snowman search is only one part of the $200,000 Hillary expedition, which is sponsored by Field Enterprises Corp., publisher of an encyclopedia.

The Snowman search is only one part of the $200,000 Hillary expedition, which is sponsored by Field Enterprises Corp., publisher of an encyclopedia.

Hillary plans to assault 27,702-foot Mt. Maklan without the aid of oxygen. He also plans to conduct tests of human endurance among men left in quarters high in the Himalayan range.

Perkins, 54, became widely known while heading the network TV show "Zoo Parade." He also has built a reputation as an intrepid explorer with snake hunting trips in Africa, South and Central America and the Western United States.

The Hillary expedition plans its early fall start in order to take advantage of new snowfalls for tracking the Snowman.

Exquisite Nests

The most beautiful nests are built by the hummingbird, whose nest is an exquisite cup less than two inches across and made of felt, plant, fern or dandelion-seed down. Covered perfectly with moss and lichens, it is fastened with spider webs so as to appear a mere protuberance on the limb.

Benton H. Ingram Was One Of First Sedalia Settlers

By HAZEL LANG

Among the first young men to come to the brand new town of Sedalia was Benton Howard Ingram, for whom Ingram Avenue was named, and the only man from the Sedalia Masonic Lodge ever to be grandmaster of the Masonic Lodge of the State of Missouri.

Ingram was born in Springfield and grew up there, where he was employed in a drug store. When the Civil War broke out so did an epidemic of smallpox in Springfield, and because he had had the disease he was kept there to take care of those who had smallpox.

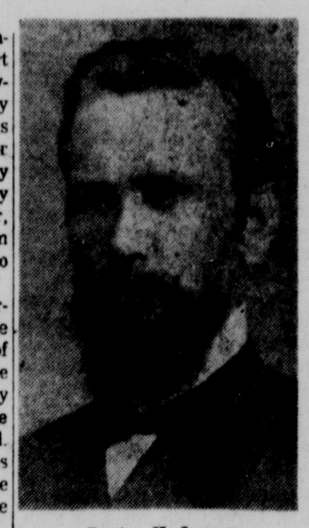

He came to Sedalia in 1863 and in 1864 opened a general merchandise store on the wide thriving business street of the new town which was called Main Street. Main Street was where it is now, on the south side of the Pacific tracks, and on the north side was the residential district.

One of the families that had settled in Sedalia at its beginning was George Faulhaber and his wife, Elizabeth, who had moved here from Jefferson City. Faulhaber, who played an important part in early Sedalia growth was mayor in 1878-79. It was when pretty little Maria Grimshaw, who was born in England, but, with her family had come to this country and to Jefferson City, came, by train for a visit with her sister, Elizabeth, that Benton Ingram first saw the girl he wanted to marry.

After he and Maria were married, Benton built a little home in the new residential district of the town, right next door to the Antes family. They were very happy in their little new home and then came their first child. They called her Nellie, but as Nellie grew older she didn't like the name, so she dropped the "ie" and became Nell.

Mr Ingram always had his eyes open for something better. and he considered buying the ground where the Third National Bank now stands, to build a new home, but decided against it, because it was such a long distance away

Union depot which was located at Third and Engineer, and Benton Ingram decided that the town was going east — so he purchased a lot of land in East Sedalia and built a little cottage in the middle of the block where the John H. Bothwell Memorial Hospital now stands. Two members of the family still reside in Sedalia; the two youngest, Juliet, who is now Mrs. W. O. Harris, and Bess Ingram, who lives at Broadway Arms. The other three children are dead.

It was a gay and beautiful home, which, when finally completed had nine rooms. It was of red brick with green shutters and was surrounded by a fence and a board walk, which, of course, was the type of walks used in those days. Charlie always liked to build things and when he was big enough he built the fence and the walk. There were many huge trees in the big yard and from the highest branches hung swings. There were hammocks, too, and turning poles, croquet sets and just every type of play equipment that youngesters had in those days, so it was a gathering place for all the children in the neighborhood and even beyond, and so the Falhaber children came often. It was just like a public park.

It was in 1871 that a fire de-

Women In Leading Role At Democrats Convention

By FRANCES LEWINE

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT —Although not a delegate this time, Mrs. Roosevelt has been invited to be a Democratic Convention speaker once again. But, she has said, her primary concern at Los Angeles will be promoting the nomination of Adlai Stevenson for a third try at the presidency.

Mrs. Roosevelt at 75 is chairman of the Civil Rights Advisory Committee of the Democratic Advisory Council — charged with drawing up recommendations for a civil rights plank for the Democratic party platform.

Mrs. Roosevelt, affectionately regarded by most Democrats, has been active in politics since the early 1920s and is credited with getting party recognition of the importance of women in political organizations.

She was the first wife of a President to address a national convention when she spoke in 1940, the year FDR was nominated for a third term. She has spoken often since.

In 1952, convention delegates

Mrs. Rudd Brown — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

gave her a 15-minute ovation and presented a scroll acclaiming her "an American citizen of the world."

MRS. RUDD BROWN — Mrs. Brown, granddaughter of the "silver-tongued orator," William Jennings Bryan, will be a member of the powerful 81-vote California delegation.

Tall, attractive, 39-year-old Mrs. Brown, wife of Cal Tech Scientist Harrison Brown, is also running a second time for Congress from her state's 21st district.

Mrs. Brown's famed grandfather three times was an unsuccessful Democratic presidential candidate.

Her mother, the late Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde was a congresswoman from Florida.

MRS. VEL PHILLIPS — Mrs. Phillips, who made history as the first woman alderman in Milwaukee in 110 years, is co-chairman of the convention committee on rules and order of business.

She was the first Negro in modern times to be named by either party as chairman or co-chairman of any of the four standing committees.

Mrs. Phillips also was the first Negro woman of the Democratic National Committee, when she was elected in 1958.

Mother of two boys, she is active in law practice in Milwaukee with her husband, Dale Phillips.

MRS. MARGARET PRICE— Mrs. Price has the distinction of being the first woman chairman of the Committee on Permanent Organization.

head of one of the major Democratic convention committees since 1948, when veteran politician Mrs. Mary T. Norton, congresswoman protege of boss Frank Hague of Jersey City, N.J., was credentials committee chairman.

Mrs. Price moves into the post held in 1956 by Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, now the convention chairman.

A native of New York, now living in Ann Arbor, Mich., 58-year-old Mrs. Price has virtually been commuting between her home state and Brazil where her husband, Hickman Price, is representative for an automotive export firm.

Active in politics since the 1940s, she was defeated when she ran in 1948 and 1950 for the post of state auditor general in Michigan.

A delegate to the past two conventions, Mrs. Price also has been active as a member of several

Mrs. Norris Eugene Kelley

Miss Peggy Garansson Bride Of Mr. Norris E. Kelley

In a candlelight service at eight o'clock Friday evening, July 8, Miss Peggy Garansson, 3659 Campbell, Kansas City, and Mr. Norris Eugene Kelley, 629 East Ninth, were united in marriage. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Walter D. Niles at the Wesley Methodist Church.

Miss Garansson is the daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, 201 East Broadway, and Mr. Carl Garansson, Manhattan, Kan. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kelley, 629 East Ninth.

Burning white tapers in brass candelabra entwined with smilax lighted the church sanctuary and bridal aisle. White chrysanthemums and baby's breath in fan shape bouquets, and arrangements of jade completed the decorations.

Miss Doris Stott, 720 West Sixth, was the organist. She played "Indian Love Call," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "If I Could Tell You," "O Promise Me" and the traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn. The vocalist, Miss Linda Burkhalter, Jefferson City, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The candles were lighted by Mr. Fred Kelley, brother of the groom, 629 East Ninth, and Mr. Richard Largent, Jackson, Miss.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore an intermission length gown of Chantilly lace over net and taffeta. The fitted bodice of lace was designed with a Sweetheart neckline and long tapering sleeves. A tracery of pearl embroidery outlined the pattern of the lace on the yoke and neckline. The empire styling was defined by folds of silk taffeta high on either side of a flat front panel, curving sharply and finishing with a great butterfly bustle at the center back. The ankle length bouffant skirt of bordered Chantilly lace was gathered with much fullness at the sides and back. A circular panel of silk taffeta lengthened to form a short sweek train. The bridal headdress was a tiny coronet of matching lace outlined with pearls and held her fingertip veil of double illusion. She carried a Bible, gift from her mother, arranged with gardenias and a shower of stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Shirley Burton, 1516 South Quincy, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Tula Van Dyne, 1012 West Broadway, and Miss Anita Kelley, 629 East Ninth. They wore dresses of terrace length white organdy over sunset pink taffeta. The classic scoop neck bodices were widely sashed with folds of pink silk falling into long streamers. The very full skirts were highlighted with a delicate leaf embroidery in tones of pink. Their headdresses were bandeaux of pink organdy leaves with short brush veils. The matron of honor carried a crescent styled bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and trailing ivy. Crescent shaped bouquets of pink sweetheart roses made up the bridesmaids' bouquets.

Best man was Mr. Rudd Van Dyne, 1012 West Broadway. Mr. Mike Magac, St. Louis, Mr. Bill Selby, St. Louis, Mr. Norris Byrd, Raytown, Mr. Walt Kennon, 1523 South Harrington, and Mr. Charles Van Dyne Jr., Route 4, were groomsmen and also served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pale green silk organza dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink gardenias. Mrs. Kelley, mother of the groom, chose a beige lace dress with beige and purple accessories and a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

The reception, held after the ceremony at the Sedalia Country Club, was attended by 300 guests. Smilax and white wedding bells framed the entrance to the club and arrangements of white and pink roses were used on the tables throughout. Seven and nine branch candelabra formed the background for the receiving line and bride's table which was covered with sheer pink floor length cloth caught up with clusters of white roses and ribbons.

With lighted tapers on each side, the five-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink roses and sugar bells, was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Janet Roberts, 1319 South Barrett, and Miss Jo Ann Hughes, Platte City, served the cake. At the punch bowl were Mrs. James Menefee, 201 East Broadway, and Mrs. Larry Gloth, 501 West Fifth. Miss Kathleen Byrd, Raytown, had charge of the guest book.

After the reception the couple left for a short honeymoon in the East. For traveling the bride chose a beige linen sheath with pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Her jewelry was a gold bracelet, gift of the groom. After the wedding trip they will make their home at 3659 Campbell, Kansas City.

The bride is a 1955 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and was graduated in 1959 from the University of Missouri. She is a member of Chi Omega fraternity and Phi Lamda Theta honorary organization and is employed as a speech correctionist for the Kansas City public schools.

Mr. Kelley is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, class of 1956, and attended Missouri University where he will return in the fall to complete his studies for a Physical Education degree.

CUSTOM SIZES

If you are one of the many women who is under five feet four inches tall, yet can't wear a junior size, there are sizes especially for you. They are called "custom sizes" and to your delight you will find many styles of coats and dresses in these sizes. You will find the coat picture most interesting. Collars and necklines are not over-powering, the pockets are not set too low and the silhouettes are never bulky. Many dollars for alterations can be saved by shopping for a custom coat. The same is true in dresses. The waistlines are shorter, and again the necklines are not overdone and usually the skirts are not too full. Trimmings are simple, as a rule they are self-trimmed, which of course makes an elegant looking dress. If you are in this size category be sure to shop for these sizes and have the thrill of selecting a garment that needs little or no alteration.

Rioting May Have Backfired

(Editors's Note — Eugene Levin of The Associated Press bureau in Rome has closely watched the political maneuverings of Italy's big Communist party and has covered the riots in Italy since they began two weeks ago.)

By EUGENE LEVIN

ROME (AP) — Bloody Communist rioting, aimed at ousting Premier Fernando Tambroni's Christian Democrat government, appeared today to have backfired and to have strengthened his hand instead.

The rioting, Italy's worst in years, has brought death to 10 and injuries to more than a thousand —both demonstrators and police. No major Italian city has escaped the disorders during the past two weeks.

Communist orators have repeatedly demanded that Tambroni must go or, as one pro-Communist senator put it, Italy will "be a government of civil war."

But the strife seems to have united the warring factions of Tambroni's Christian Democrat party behind him, at least for the present, and to have made it more difficult for the Fascists to withdraw their support from him.

Tambroni's government was a shaky one when it came to power in April. The left wing of the Christian Democrats openly opposed the government. Tambroni needed Fascist votes to survive a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies. The Communists and Socialists on the left, and Liberals and the Monarchists on the right, all opposed Tambroni.

A week ago the Premier looked as if he was in trouble. In the early stages of the rioting, Communist demonstrators forced the government to order the cancellation of a Fascist national congress in Genoa. Irate Fascists threatened to withdraw their support from the government. They said it should have given them more protection.

But in the past three days violent rioting has created a new, critical situation in which the Fascists are expected to think twice before opposing Tambroni. And some say the Liberals and Monarchists might have second thoughts too if matters come to a head in a confidence vote. Tambroni's big test is expected to come Tuesday when both houses of Parliament debate the rioting.

In the meantime, Tambroni is acting like a man determined to subdue the violence without compromise.

New VA Law Ups Limit On Child Income

Custodians and legal guardians of minor children receiving death pension from the Veterans Administration would be wise to elect pension under the new pension law according to W. F. Fidler, officer-in-charge of the Sedalia Veterans Administration at 208 South Lamine.

The new law raises the income limit for children from $1400 to $1800 per year. Earned income of the child is not included in this limit under the new law as it is under the old law.

Pension rates for children are higher under the new law. For example, a child receiving $27.30 per month under the old law can receive $35 a month under the new law after July 1. Two children, each receiving $20.47 per month under the old law, may each receive $25 a month under the new law, provided the custodian of each child elects the new law.

There is no instance in which election of the new law will prove to be disadvantageous to the child, Fidler said.

The new law has a net worth test, but the VA will not accept an election of the new law if the net worth of the child would bar payments under the new law.

A County Health Center

The next 23 days may be considered the home stretch for the diversified group of Democratic and Republican candidates who have been campaigning for election in the August 2 primary.

Up until now there really haven't been any significant political fireworks set off to put sizzle into the contest—just a persistent door-knocking affair even among the formidable list of sheriff candidates. If there is an preponderant vote gotten out on election day, the sheriff's race will probably be responsible for it.

Whatever keen interest may develop in the candidate aspect of the primary, we hope it is shared by proper recognition of the Pettis County Health Center project which needs financing by a regular tax levy. There will be a ballot for this purpose asking for a mere one-half mill per dollar on assessed valuation of property. A two-thirds vote is required for passage.

This should not be too difficult to attain if those who vote for the primary candidates will simply take time to mark the levy ballot, too. Literally hundreds of such ballots are usually tossed aside at the polls by voters who actually have no objection to such a levy and would vote for it if they were encouraged by their neighbors.

The levy for the Health Center has been repeatedly endorsed the past six weeks by a cross section of city and county organized groups. The project has been thoroughly explained and published by Fred Rector, educational consultant from the Missouri Division of Health, Mrs. Gertrude Berlin, county nurse, members of the Pettis County Health Advisory committee, and a host of others acquainted with the proposal.

The fact that 2,390 persons in the county voluntarily petitioned for this levy election for the Public Health Center is significant. Only 1,572 petitioners were needed.

The genuine interest shown in this project lends itself as an endorsement of this movement in Pettis County which has as its goals, prevention of disease, promotion of health and rehabilitation of the disabled, helping old and young to help themselves, coordinating health activites with those of the school, family, physicians, official and voluntary health agencies, county officials and other agencies.

Pettis county should be among the leaders in this worthy enterprise which can be retained if the voters will mark their ballots in favor of the levy instead of tossing it aside in the voting booth, Tuesday, August 2.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Backstage Huddling to Pick President

By DREW PEARSON

LOS ANGELES—Backstage huddling, where the TV cameras can't get in, is taking place all over the lot both in Los Angeles and Washington. And some of it may decide who is to be the next president of the United States.

One of the most important took place the other evening between Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, onetime candidate, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, full-time candidate. With them were Earle Clements, former senator from Kentucky and chief mastermind of the Johnson campaign, and Bobby Baker, Johnson's right-hand assistant.

They wanted Minnesota's 31 key votes to go for Johnson, not Kennedy; and they knew that as a bribe to get those votes, Sen. Humphrey had been approached by Sen. Kennedy, the man who beat him in West Virginia, to be Kennedy's vice - presidential running mate.

"I'm not going to run," Humphrey said with vigor. "I'm fed up with primaries. I've got a big campaign debt to pay off, and I've got to stick to my knitting as senator. Furthermore, Muriel is so fed up with all this that she'd divorce me if I ran for vice president."

Humphrey, who has more energy and more initiative than almost anyone else in the Senate, then gave some suggestions to Lyndon Johnson.

McCarthy for V.P.

"The man to run for vice president on your ticket is Gene McCarthy," he said, referring to his colleague, the Democratic senator from Minnesota, a Catholic. "He's the guy for you. But you've got to promote him. Tell some newspapermen about it. You've got to really publicize this.

"And you've got to get Stu Symington in here," continued Humphrey, pointing to a chair. "Sit him down and talk to him Get him out of the race. You're the only one who can beat Kennedy."

Humphrey also told how the governor of Minnesota, Orville Freeman, had come to him to report that the Kennedy forces had been talking to him about running for vice president on the Kennedy ticket in another attempt to corral the 31 key votes of the Minnesota delegation.

"You won't do that, Orville," Humphrey said he told the governor. "If you do I'll come out against you."

Humphrey explained that Freeman was running for an unprecedented fourth term for governor, might have a tough battle, and that running for vice president might be an alternative. Humphrey said he needed the governor's support in his own re-election campaign. They are old friends and the governor pretty much dominated the state Democratic organization. Despite this, he said, he would oppose Freeman's running for vice president in any Kennedy bid to win the Minnesota delegation.

Besides, he said, Sen. McCarthy would have more appeal than Freeman in the farm belt if he ran for vice president.

Senator Humphrey, who came up the hard way from drugstore clerk to be mayor of Minneapolis, later U.S. senator, really let his hair down regarding his now abandoned race for president. He was bitter against Kennedy and the tactics the latter had used in West Virginia. He told how he, Humphrey, had wept in his hotel room when he got the news of his crushing defeat, how he made the decision at that time to bow out of the race.

The session between onetime candidate Humphrey and full-time candidate Johnson lasted about two hours. It was followed by another backstage huddle, this one with Democratic Congressmen John Blatnik of Duluth and Joseph Karth of St. Paul, the latter a very strong Kennedy supporter.

After the latter huddle was over, Sen. Humphrey told the press just the opposite—namely, that he was for the nomination of Gov. Orville Freeman for vice president.

Thus continues the off-stage play of power for the biggest elective job in the world. It can make strong men weep and truthful men ignore the truth.

Money Talks

What really crushed Hubert Humphrey in his campaign for president was money. He didn't have it. His opponent, Jack Kennedy, did. Humphrey begged, borrowed, passed the hat. He ended up the Wisconsin campaign $27,000 in the hole, with nothing to go on for West Virginia.

"The only thing I had for West Virginia," he told friends, "was Humphrey. I had to go out, without rest, and charge right out of Wisconsin to West Virginia. Then I came back to Washington to regroup my forces personally and decide which personnel to send where.

"This was expensive. The Oregon operation was fantastically expensive. On top of this I was told that I would need a minimum of $75,000 or $100,000 as an operating fund in Los Angeles. All this money was out of the question. Absolutely, totally out of the question.

"All I could mobilize for Los Angeles was $10,000, or at the most $15,000. I have no gas company, no oil company, no iron mines in Minnesota backing me; I had to go to fellows in Minnesota that gave me a few dollars in the past. I had to raise it the hard way, county by county, dollar by dollar.

"You haven't any idea what it costs to run for president—unless you have a family fortune."

That's the penalty that faces a poor man in politics. And that's why Hubert Humphrey got out of the race for president.

U.S. Team Looks Good

The 1960 Olympic track team which has just finished training in Stanford California promises to be the best ever sent to the Olympic, according to team manager Pincus Sober of New York.

Manager Sober says the time, distances and heights demonstrated during the training period at Stanford show improvement on previous records. Of course, other teams will also have improved, such as Russia, Germany, Poland and other top competitors, but they will have to go some to beat the U.S. team especially in field events.

Three world records were bettered during the Stanford competition; the high jump, pole vault and 200 meter dash.

Walter B. Bakke, among the deans of athletic trainers as Veteran trainer at the University of Wisconsin, when invited to go to Rome for the Olympic and given his choice of sports, chose track. He concurs with manager Sober that the 1960 team is the best.

The training period is not finished There will be a well earned vacation until July 25 when they will resume training at Eugene, Oregon.

If the other sports distinguish themselves as favorably in their training tests, the "Road to Rome" should be paved with a few gold medals for the United States teams.

HERMANN (Mo.) ADVERTISER-COURIER: When Will People Learn?—A state official announced last week that a new state building will be erected in St. Joseph at a cost of about $200,000, with an additional $35,000 being paid for the site. The news release which announced the plans said: "The building will not cost the state one cent, since it will be paid for out of funds granted the state by the Federal government under an Act which provided that the excess of the Federal Employment Tax over the cost of the administration of the employment security program shall be returned pro-rata to the states."

Great Scott! When will people learn nothing is free? The fund referred to above was collected from the state—the state, in turn, received the fund from employment taxes paid by large and small business throughout Missouri. The new structure should have a large sign bearing the inscription: "Erected at the expense of Missouri's tax-paying business."

Odds and Ends By News Staff

The prosecuting attorney who is one of the Brothers of the Brush walked into the east entrance of the courthouse recently, passed the line of men sitting in the corridor and as he did he heard one man say to another: "There goes Harold Barrick now."

Barrick turned and went back "Was there something you wanted to talk to me about?" he asked.

For a few minutes there was silence and the man just stared at Barrick, then he said: "No—I didn't want to talk to you about anything—I just wanted to get a good look at that beard."—H.L.

It has been years since the woman has had a green dress, not that she didn't like green, she just never seemed to buy one, and then people started giving her green jewelry. Well, green is supposed to go with everything, but since she had jewelry that went with all her clothes better, it just got to the place where she felt she should do something about it and she did. She not only bought one green dress, she bought two. Now she has dresses to go with the jewelry. H. L.

For many years a Sedalia business man has never gone out of his office without putting on his hat. He simply wore the hat everywhere at all times summer and winter. Recently he has been going without it. He doesn't even wear it to the office any more. Curiously, one of the women in the office wondered what had become of the hat. Had he lost it? Had it worn out? Or what had happened?

"Did you lose your hat?" she asked. "Or have you turned collegiate?"

"Neither," he said with a grin. "I'm trying to get rid of dandruff." — H. L.

Someone mentioned sauerkraut and wieners and another woman said she never thought of sauerkraut and wieners that she didn't think of a young boy from this vicinity several years ago who went to a camp of some kind. Each youngster was allowed to prepare breakfast one morning and fix whatever he liked best. When it came his turn he fixed sauerkraut and wieners.

Needless to say everybody was a bit shocked and when the man in charge commented on it the boy looked up at him and said: "Well, you said to fix whatever we liked best and sauerkraut and wieners is what I like best."—H.L.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Two hundred and forty-nine CCC recruits from four central Missouri counties were given instructions at the National Guard Armory in preparation to leave for camps at Canton, Blue Springs, Palmyra and Liberty.

1935

Julian H. Bagby, young businessman of Sedalia, manager of the Beatrice Creamery Co., was nominated candidate for mayor on the Democratic ticket at the Democratic convention held in the circuit court room of the courthouse. He seeks election to fill the unexpired term of Mayor O. B. Poundstone, resigned. There were five candidates in the race for the Democratic nomination: C. P. Curtis, D. E. Lyles, E. W. Couey and George Emo. A special election will be held July 16.

FORTY YEARS AGO

C. E. Egdorf, day ticket agent for the Katy, is laying off and left for Versailles to attend the Masonic activities.

William Triplett, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Triplett, 1901 South Osage Avenue, left for New York to go to West Point where he will enter the West Point Military Academy.

Ruth Millett Says

Wife Is Ready to Dine Out Anytime---But Not Hubby

"Housewives are the restaurant industry's biggest competitor," says Harry Akin, president of the National Restaurant Assn.

Akin sees his job as selling the American housewife on the pleasures of dining out. From what I know of housewives, I don't think Akin is going to have too much trouble persuading the little woman to get out of the kitchen at least one night a week.

But he may have quite a job in selling her husband on the idea.

From a man's point of view nothing is simpler than eating at home.

He doesn't have to plan the menu, buy the food, cook it, get it on the table, clear the table, wash the dishes and clean the kitchen at meal's end.

All he has to do is sit down and eat when his wife sings out: "dinner's ready." So persuading him that eating out is a nice break from eating in may not be so easy.

The best chance a wife has to sell her husband on the idea that he ought to take her out to dinner at least one night a week is to get him started on the routine in the very first months of marriage.

If he knows from the start that dinner out occasionally i simportant to his bride—then she's got a chance of keeping him from settling down to the dull routine of dinner at home every night, followed by an evening before the TV set.

So the smart bride will dress up in her best one night a week and get her husband to take her out for dinner—the way he used to before they were married.

Sitting across from each other at a candlelit table in a quiet restaurant, they'll find themselves discussing all sorts of fascinating subjects, building dreams together and planning for the future.

And "dinner out one night a week" shouldn't be discontinued when the children come along. For then, more than ever a husband and wife need to get off by themselves for an occasional, quiet, peaceful evening.

So Akin's plan of getting the housewife out of the kitchen ought not to meet with any resistance from the housewife.

Crossroads Comment

by G.H.S.

An editorial about the mass use of compact cars likely making a gas tax increase necessary to keep up the highways brings this comment from RHJ:

"Let's celebrate while we carburate. Let's talk about our own experiences, not what someone else says. Drive any direction from Sedalia, and you will find that the car that is really a road hazard is the broken-down, oversize gas buggy leading a long line of cars to the next passing spot.

"Then there is considerable meaning in the word "compact." Webster tells us the word means to consolidate, which is what American car makers have done. They have consolidated all the necessary component parts of an auto into a neater smaller package. Not so with the "small" foreign cars.

"Further celebration brings us the gas tax problem. If the compact cars force an increase in gas taxes, then owners of the overgrown monsters will be forced to pay more to operate their overgrown cars on our over-crowded highways, or trade in their heaps and join the compact car group.

"This will cause the new highways we build with the gas tax increase to last a lot longer, won't it?"

Sharing

Without sharing life would be
Very, very dull I'm sure,
Things of pleasure, things we see,
And the things we must endure;
Always there's need to share
A glorious sunset, lovely scene,
There are times someone must care,
Moments quiet and serene;
Flowers in a garden grow
So much better when we give
Starts to other folks, you know,
So does sharing lives we live;
Seems that everything we do
We must share it with someone,
Joy, smiles and laughter, too,
Or it isn't any fun;
Sharing friendship through the years
Sharing memories of the past,
Sharing somehow just endears
Little things to make them last;
Every sorrow we come through,
Every happiness we earn,
We must share the thing we do
Or we get nothing in return,
Give to others as we go,
Sharing things great or small,
For alone we never know
Precious things in life at all.

Finding the Way

Ideas Can Be As Inanimate As the Dead Cid's Sword

By RALPH W. LOEW D.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

About 800 years ago Spain possessed a valiant fortress, which was unassailable because of the courage of a great leader. The bay for years. Then death came Moorish invaders were held at bay for years. Then death came to the Cid, plunging his companions into heartsick fear.

Out of their despir they clothed their dead leader in his armor, seated the corpse on the horse and rode out in a phalanx against the Moors.

At first the invaders were struck with fear as they saw the Cid, but when they saw his sword dangling at his side, they rallied their forces and charged. They defeated the weary Spaniards and Valencia, the fortress city, fell.

This vignette of history is a glimpse of what we might be attempting to do in our own time. Ideas can die while we still hold on to their words as helpless swords.

We can chatter about freedom, liberty, truth, morality and peace as though they were great ideals. It will not take the enemy long to discover which of these ideas are corpses.

Just as our children soon discover our petty shams, so our enemies see through the facades which hide our own bankruptcies of spirit.

This is what has troubled us in recent decades. Once upon a time a fierce idealism gripped us. Now we have found ourselves out and exhibited a diminished image squeezed in with scandals, cheapness and prudential ethics.

We feel ashamed, sometimes as silly as though our youngsters had caught us in some petty cheating, frightened as though the world had seen that our ideas were as the dead Cid's sword.

From time to time we Americans smile as we see a stalwart African coming out of his jungle in one giant step to take his place in the society of the nations. Some of these men wear nothing but a loincloth and a shirt or hat borrowed from the West. They want to be themselves, yet they imitate something else.

Before we laugh out loud we ought to remember the many times we've put on the hat of religion or the shirt of morality or the necktie of freedom and assumed that this would turn the trick.

It is important to keep the symbolism alive; it is more important to understand that virtues require a total commitment.

We will never win the battle for men's allegiances with neat slogans.

There really is a difference between a man who believes in freedom and a Communist who uses the same word. There is a gulf between morality and immorality.

There is a large gap between men who believe in the dignity of the human individual and those who want to manipulate human beings for their own purposes.

This is no time for lifeless slogans. It is a time to recapture the ancient truth that there is a moral freedom that can keep us from being slaves of anybody, therefore the servants of everyone.

The Doctor Says

Newborn Baby a Villain? Well, Judge the Evidence

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

If you're a regular viewer of Westerns, you know what type casting is. You don't need a score card to tell who's the "good guy" and who's the "bad one."

And you probably know, too, that every once in a while a director will pull a switch and do what's called "offbeat" casting by having the actor who looks like the "good guy" turn out to be the villain.

Today I'm going to give you an example of "offbeat" medical casting that will surprise you more than anything you will see in the wildest Western.

For the villain of today's piece is the newborn infant!

Let me give you the details as they have just been reported by Doctors Valerie Hurst and Moses Grossman of the University of California's Medical Center in the New England Journal of Medicine.

It seems there was an epidemic of a skin infection (impetigo) in the center's nursery. During the period of the epidemic, some 278 infants were born in the nursery. Some developed impetigo. Others did not.

After a lapse of 18 months, an unselected group of 94 of the families of the babies were visited and tests were done to determine how many of the infants, their parents and their brothers and sisters carried the staphylococcus bug that was responsible for the epidemic of impetigo.

To the surprise of investigators, about one-third of the infants (now 18 months old) still carried the staph in their noses, throats, armpits or groins.

And to their greater surprise, fewer than half of these "carriers" had actually been afflicted with impetigo. The remainder were what is called "asymptomatic carriers."

When the investigators pursued their inquiry further, they made these startling discoveries:

Approximately 10 per cent of the members of the family carried the staph in their noses or throats. That is to say they, too, were asymptomatic carriers.

Just under half of the babies had suffered some sort of staph infection in the 18 months that elapsed following their discharge from the nursery.

One mother in each group of five had also suffered a staph infection during this same 18-months period. Most of these infections were in the skin (boils and carbuncles). But some involved the breasts.

One father in each group of 10 had also suffered from boils or carbuncles and there was a single case of pneumonia that almost ended fatally.

One brother or sister in each group of eight was also infected in the manner of the parents, bringing the total number of staph infections to 82 over the 18-month period.

It takes a wide stretch of the imagination to picture a new-born baby as the villain in any life situation. But facts are facts. And the lesson to be learned is as obvious as the angelic expression on any infant's face.

Is there some relationship between drinking "hard" or "soft" water and hardening of the arteries?

I've always scoffed at the idea. Now, however, comes Dr. Henry A. Schroeder of Dartmouth College with a report on this question that's worth a careful looksee.

Starting with the hunch that hard water might lead to the development of hard arteries (and hence greater liability to attacks on coronary thrombosis), Dr. Schroeder has discovered that the very opposite appears closer to the truth.

That is to say, where the hardness of water is highest, death rates throughout the U. S. from diseases of the heart and arteries are lowest for males in the 45-to-64-year age groups.

What makes these findings all the more significant is the fact that no such relationship exists in the death rates from diseases except those related to the circulatory system.

Of further interest to each of us is Dr. Schroeder's discoverey that the U. S. is pretty celarly divided by the Ohio River into states than have harder-than-average water supply.

With the exception of Florida and Kentucky, all the harder-than average water supplies and lower than average deaths from arteriosclerosis are north or west of the Ohio.

And, with the exception of Indiana and Illinois, all the softer-than-average water supplies and higher-than-average deaths from arteriosclerosis are south or east of the Ohio.

On the basis of water hardness alone, deaths from arteriosclerosis and coronary diseases are least likely to befall those of us who live in South Dakota, Nebraska, New Mexico, Florida, Indiana, Arizont, Iowa, Utah, Kansas, Wyoming and South Dakota, in approximately that order.

Next to Dr. Schroeder's program of investigation is an attempt to discover whether the drinking of hard water confers a relative immunity to arterial disease or whether the drinking of soft water produces a greater susceptibility to vascular sclerosis.

Either way, the new study is rather a blow at what the Journal of the American Medical Asciation calls the "Jack Spratt School of the Theory of Arteriosclerosis."

Since the Schroeder report specifically states that the figures reveal no significant relationship between fatal arteriosclosis or coronary disease and the factors of local dietary habits or sources of food, perhaps we can do our bit to ease the economic plight of our dairy farmers by restoring at least some bacon and eggs, cream and butter to our tables.

Some people are merely pressed by high taxes---others are taken to the cleaners.

Women at Convention

Michigan welfare and youth groups.

Rep. Edith Green — Mrs. Katie Louchheim

REP. EDITH GREEN (D-ORE)—Mrs. Green goes to the convention as chairman of the Oregon delegation—first woman ever to hold such a post at a major party convention.

A congresswoman since 1954, Mrs. Green is in Sen. John F. Kennedy's corner in the presidential race.

She was chairman of Kennedy's successful Oregon primary campaign against Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

Mrs. Green, 50, heads the 34-member delegation from her state, with its 17 votes pledged to Kennedy. There are about 10 women in the Oregon delegation.

A former school teacher, she has led a long fight to get juvenile delinquency legislation through Congress to provide grants for research and better trained personnel. She has backed school aid and education bills as well.

She's the wife of Arthur Green, a building contractor. They have two sons.

MRS. KATIE LOUCHHEIM—Dynamic vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Mrs. Louchheim will be a convention speaker and a busy neutral amid the delegates.

She'll preside at a series of early morning "Coffee with Katie" news conferences on the woman's angles at the convention.

Head of the party's women's activities since 1953 Mrs. Louchheim is one of the best known lady Democrats. She not only has chalked up close to 200,000 miles on political trips, but has helped many women — and men — get elected to office.

Katie, who is a resident of the voteless District of Columbia, would love to be a senator or congresswoman herself. But nobody runs for those offices from D.C. and Mrs. Louchheim contents herself with plugging for other candidates.

A native of New York City, she is the wife of a private investment counselor who came to Washington in early New Deal days to work for the Securities and Exchange Commission. She has two married daughters and now devotes herself fulltime to politics.

Her real name is "Kathleen" but nobody ever calls her anything but "Katie."

She did wartime work for the U.N. relief and Rehabilitation Administration; got into politics at the national level working in the 1940 presidential campaign, and was elected to the Democratic National Committee in 1956.

She frowns on women who stay out of politics or are non-partisan.

MRS. DOROTHY VREDENBURGH—She'll call the convention roll of the states again for the Democrats with a Southern accent, starting off with her home state of Alabama.

Mrs. Vredenburgh is no longer the rarity she was back in 1944 when the Democrats tapped her to be the first woman ever to hold the post of convention secretary in a major party.

Then only 27, she replaced George E. Allen, who left the job to campaign for Harry Truman.

Tall, slender, attractive, with blue eyes, Mrs. Vredenburgh earned a reputation of being an astute politician, an able campaigner and a diplomatic peacemaker.

She was married to a wealthy Alabama lumberman, Peter Vredenburgh, who died early in 1956.

She held a top secretarial job before her marriage and was active among young Democrats.

In 1956, she supported Adlai Stevenson and there were even rumors they planned to marry. "I was never more flattered, but unfortunately there is no truth to it at all," Stevenson told the press.

When Alabama left the party in 1948 over the civil rights plank, Mrs. Vredenburgh stuck and campaigned vigorously for Truman.

"I have always believed that states' rights and civil rights problems can be solved by sticking within the party and fighting it out as a family affair," she once said.

The above is a scene from the stirring war drama BATTLE HYMN which begins today at the Uptown Theatre. Starring Rock Hudson and Martha Hyer, BATTLE HYMN tells the remarkable story of a minister turned fighter pilot. Rock Hudson plays Colonel Dean Hess, whose life has thrilled millions on television's "This is Your Life." Playing with "Battle Hymn" is the compelling drama of today's young moderns rebelling against society, "The Young Philadelphians," starring Paul Newman.

In the above scene from "Circus of Horrors" Elissa, sensational trapeze artist by this time, demands top billing which she has been promised. But she discovers Goethe has another "light of love" in the person of Melina, billed as "Helen of Troy." From left: Yvonne Romain as Melina, Anton Diffring as Dr. Goethe, Erika Remberg as Elissa. Now showing at the Fox Theatre.

With Howls of Laughter

University Drama Group Tours Ohio River Towns

MADISON, Ind. (AP) —Little Mary, propelled to a sickbed by an empty whisky bottle bounced off her head by a sodden father, is back on an Ohio River boat extracting that famous pledge from her remorseful parent:

"I promise you I will not again take a drink—tonight."

The howls of laughter greeting the line from capacity crowds reassure Director William E. Kinzer that he guessed right giving "Ten Nights in a Barroom" top billing in the repertoire of an Indiana University dramatic troupe visiting Ohio River towns this summer in a real showboat. Other choice museum pieces include "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "In Old Kentucky."

Just when showboat runs seemed to be dying out on the river, crowds are turning out in sellout numbers to watch the Indiana drama students resurrect the old-time favorites. In addition to a summer of river life, the cast will have three to six hours of college credit and the experience of 88 performances when the curtain falls for the season's end in Louisville on Sept. 3.

The student troupe opened its season here and then started up river for a long string of stops at Indiana and Kentucky towns.

The floating university theater sprang from the determination of Dr. Lee Norvelle to enlarge the audience for his I. U. theater to span all of Indiana. He saw his opportunity when the old Majestic, last of the Ohio River showboats, went up for sale.

The university set up Showboat Inc. to buy the boat for $30,000, using profits built up through the years by the campus theater at Bloomington and its original branch—a barn theater for summer weekend shows in Nashville, an artist's colony 18 miles from the campus. Repairs and renovations have run the total investment near $50,000.

Forty or 50 students tried out for the showboat, but it wasn't acting ability alone that counted. For three months of close-quarter living on the boat, Kinzer—member of the I.U. speech faculty—knew he had to look for other qualities. The company of 20 includes six graduate students.

"They were selected for compartibility—both socially and professionally," says Kinzer, a short, balding bundle of energy on the go from early morning until after midnight.

The students themselves can't always match their director's energy, but their schedule runs around 12 hours a day. On the campus, a full summer's classroom schedule would total only 120 hours.

Kinzer gets welcome help in everything from calliope playing to backstage operations from John Reynolds, 27, Point Pleasant, W.Va., towboat skipper. Reynolds offered to spend 40 days of his vacation as Majestic captain. He has sentimental reasons for following the Majestic. He and his two brothers and one sister were born on the boat, and the family formed their own troupe, playing melodrama up and down half a dozen rivers as recently as 1952. His father, the late Capt. Tom Reynolds, sold the Majestic to the university.

Best-covered Convention In History

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The best covered convention in history — that's the radio-TV outlook for the Democratic parley when it begins Monday.

The man making the prediction is Bill Henry, and he should know. He's coordinator of radio-TV arrangements for both conventions and he's done the job since 1948.

"You won't be able to get away from the convention," Henry observed. "You'll see it in your living room, you'll hear it in your car; you'll even have it in the bathroom. No convention has ever been so widely covered on radio and TV.

"The reason is that it shapes up as a good fight. But the coverage of the Republican convention is going to be almost as big. I think that people sense this is going to be a hot campaign. Nobody is a sure winner, and this time an incumbent isn't running."

Henry added with a grin: "There's another reason the Democrats are getting such good coverage: Everybody wants to see Southern California."

Long-time columnist for the Los Angeles Times, Henry has also been a broadcaster since the early days of radio and will be reporting for NBC at both conventions. He told how he fell into his coordinator post:

"I helped out on arrangements at the 1944 conventions, where there was only radio. In 1948, when TV coverage was only a local affair in New York and Philadelphia, they needed help in setting it up. I was head of the House radio-TV gallery at the time, so I was enlisted.

"I've done it ever since. It's a thankless job and unpaid; I don't even get expenses. But the national committees need someone on the other side to help them weed out the station managers and salesmen who try to worm their way into a free seat."

Jack Christie, radio-TV director for the Democratic National Convention, reports that 980 persons have been accredited, aside from network personnel. Countries represented include Japan, Canada, Great Britain, France, Italy and several in South America.

Project Meetings

Project leaders, we hope that you have most of your projects meetings out of the way but if you have not yet held project meetings it will put the 4-H members at a very disadvantage, if you do not help them with their work right away. It is a highlight for each 4-H Club member to be able to exhibit articles made in his or her project at the County 4-H Achievement Day. If you have not held project meetings, there is a chance that the 4-H member in your project will not have very many items to exhibit at the Achievement Day. Please encourage the 4-H members to exhibit as many items from their project work as possible.

4-H Sunday Summary

Some of you will be interested in knowing the results of the 4-H Sunday programs held in Pettis County on or near May 22, which was designated as National 4-H Sunday (Rural Life Sunday). Thus far, 16 of the 31 4-H Clubs have reported and the results sent to the State 4-H Club Office. Of the 16 clubs reporting there were 344 4-H members and leaders attending the 4-H Sunday programs, 480 other parents and friends and 176 members actually had a part in the 4-H Sunday program.

From looking over the information sent in from the 16 clubs, I would say that the clubs have had excellent 4-H Sunday programs which probably could not be topped by programs held in the past. There were various types of programs held. Five 4-H clubs indicated they held an evening vesper service and a wiener roast or a picnic or dinner held in connection with the morning church service at one of the local churches with 4-H Club members participating. Three clubs reported they held afternoon services in their meeting place or church, some with guest speakers while others used one of the 4-H members or leaders to give the devotional. Two 4-H Clubs report they went as a group to one of the churches in the community.

4-H Demonstration Workshop Summary

Eight 4-H Demonstration Workshops were held in different areas of Pettis County. There were 162 persons representing 22 Clubs attending one of the eight meetings. Attendance at each meeting place is listed as follows: Bryson, 12; Highpoint School, 15; Anderson, 24; Hughesville, 21; Houstonia School, 13; Quisenberry, 32; Beaman Community Hall, 18; and Rigen Community Hall, 27. Those attending Rigen Brushy were as follows: Alice Sudduth, Betty Schutte, Mrs. Wm. Sudduth and Janet, Mrs. Ralph Montgomery, Linda Bybee, Mary Lou Mickens, and Dell Bultemeier.

Those attending from South Abell were as follows: Mrs. E. L. Bohon, Jr., Bobby Bohon, Billy Duensing, Stanley Bohon, Rodney Thomas, Lynn Middleton, Monica Middleton, Jane Hickam, Mrs. Ralph R. Thomas, Mrs. E. K. Davis, Evelyn McFatrich, Patty Simmons and Michaela Knox.

Those attending from Smithton were as follows: Mrs. Nolen Gieschen, Yvonne Gieschen, Avanell Harlan, Jewel Craig, Carol Dickson, Joyce Dickson and Helen Hampy.

Passes Tests So Far
Sun Tans Made by Man Come Shining Through

WASHINGTON — Thirty rabbits may tell scientists whether bottled sun tan is as safe as the sun-made type.

For more than three months, Food and Drug Administration specialists have been smearing the animals with new lotions and creams that cause skin to brown without exposure to the sun.

Whether these highly popular cosmetics are harmful will be determined by the tests. Cosmetics, unlike drugs, do not require FDA examination before they are put on the market.

The rabbits passed all tests thus far with flying colors, no adverse reactions and healthy looking tans.

Now FDA scientists are making autopsies to dicover whether body organs are armed by the cosmetics before they give the tanning agents a stamp of approval.

FDA officials say they have received countles inquiries concerninsg the products' safety but no reports of any actual ill effects resulting from the cosmetics.

Each of the 12 man-made tanners being tested contains dihydroxyacetone, a body chemical produced when food is converted into energy. How this chemical tans the skin when applied externally remains a mystery.

Dr. John H. Draize, who's in charge of the experiments, says that rabbits were selected because of their sensitive skins. In the project's first phase, the animals were divided into five groups of six rabbits each.

They were placed in stocks with wooden collars to prevent them from licking their clipped backs after the tanning products were applied.

The amounts of cosmetic applied varied from group to group. One received a dose proportionate to the usual human applications.

Another group received twice the amount, a third, quadruple. Eight times the usual amount was applied to the fourth group to guarantee the products safety regardless of use.

Rabbits in the fifth group had their top layers of skin taken off to test the products' effect on damaged skin.

Each rabbit, except those in the last group, received a daily application for three months. The animals with damaged skin were tested for only 20 days.

To find out if the tanning products caused harmful internal effects, scientists ran daily blood tests, injected the animals with special chemicals and analyzed their urine.

The only warning the FDA issued thus far is printed on the labels — a chemical sun tan does not protect you from natural sunburn.

Gardens On a Grand Scale

Beauty Within the Reach Of All; Gallaway Gardens

By PAUL SIMMONS

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP)—Almost a century ago an 8-year-old boy trudged 20 miles to buy three spools of cotton thread for five cents. He sold them for 15 cents.

From that simple transaction he spun one of Georgia's great family fortunes. Years later Fuller E. Callaway, 13th son of a West Georgia preacher and farmer, passed a textile empire on to his sons.

Now it belongs to Cason J. Callaway, multimillionaire industrialist and philanthropist who built the 2,500-acre Ida Cason Callaway Gardens here.

The gardens are a tribute to Callaway's mother, whom he remembers as embodying the beauty of nature. She was fond of flowers although she was not an ardent gardener.

Callway, 65, an erect, graying six-footer with a cordial manner, gardens on a grand scale. At 27 he headed the sprawling Callaway Mills founded by his father. At 43 he retired to seek ways of improving his state's agriculture.

Callaway acquired 40,000 acres of farm and timberland along a wooded mountain for experimental farming. Development of his extensive holdings led in 1952 to opening the Callaway Gardens a panorama of natural and cultivated beauty laced with 11 spring fed lakes.

Callaway says the gardens' aim is to put beauty within the reach of all. He puts it: "Hang the picture on the wall. No place or people have a monoply on the appreciation of beauty."

He recalls that his home town of LaGrange, Ga., had little of beauty, especially for children. It was too small for a YMCA, to large for rabbit hunting. There was little for the son of a prospering merchant to do except shoot marbles in the dusty streets.

So when great wealth came to him — his personal fortune is estimated at from 50 to 100 million dollars — he turned to the creation of beauty on a giant scale. The site at Pine Mountain is in the southernmost tip of the Appalachian range, not far from Warm Springs, Ga.

Some 3½ million dollars has gone into the gardens. A staff of 100, with 50 gardeners, serves facilities which include a half-mile long man-made beach, a nine-hole golf course, nature trails and boating, fishing and picnic areas.

The gardens have 11 miles of surfaced roads overlooking breathtaking vistas of floral displays and woodland. There are 3,000 varieties of flowers, shrubs and ornamental trees, most of them native wild growth.

Callaway still holds big industry directorships—in U.S. Steel, Shell Oil, Chemical Bank of New York. On monthly business trips to New York he takes his place with leaders in the world of finance.

But back home in Georgia he is likely to lose himself among the 500,000 nature lovers who visit the gardens each year.

On Callaway's paternal side were five generations of Baptist preachers. His father was the family's first industrialist. Fuller Callaway wooed his bride with bananas from his mercantile store and notes passed during sermons at the First Baptist church.

Fuller's two sons—Cason and Fuller Jr.—began as workers in overalls. Each went on in turn to succeed his father as president of Callaway Mills and of the American Cotton Manufacturers Assn.

Cason's son, Howard, a West Point graduate, is executive director of the gardens.

Benton H. Ingram

stroyed the general store of Benton Ingram's and he lost not only the contents of the store but much of the money owed him by customers who had not paid. One old lady, however, wanted to square her account, and so she brought him a feather bed. Mrs. Ingram made the feather bed into pillows and Mrs. Harris and Miss Ingram still have pillows made of those feathers. He went in the Life and fire insurance business after that.

"Papa," as the children called him, saw the need of a larger living room for Nell was growing up and the other three children were coming along, too, so he knocked out a petition to make a large room. In it was a black mantel with goldleaf which the children watched the man put on. They were fascinated by the way he would now and then rub the side of his head with the brush leaving a gold streak in his hair. There was a big square piano in the room, too, which came from Philadelphia.

The home was filled with laughter for there were many parties, and the young people, Nell's crowd, would put down the tarpaulin over the carpet, and dance on it, because this was before the time of hard wood floors.

Nell had grown into a very beautiful young lady with brown eyes and blonde hair, and was graduated from Miller's Seminary at the northwest corner of Broadway and Lamine. She was the only graduate in her class.

About that time a cousin came over from England for a visit and she wanted to take Nell back to England with her for a few months. Papa studied it over. He had planned to send her to college and he couldn't do both, but maybe this was better than going to college. Mama was afraid. Nell was so young, but the cousin said she would even bring her back home. And while tongues wagged and heads shook at the shocking thing the Ingrams were doing, allowing their daughter to go to England, Nell was the first girl from Sedalia to go abroad — but people thought it was terrible.

When she was returning from England there was to be a program on the boat, and Nell, who was an accomplished elocutionist was on the program. So was a young Englishman by the name of Edmund G. Walton, who was a violinist. They met that way and then one day after she was home she received a pressed flower and the name of the ship. She acknowledge it and there were more notes and letters, plus ten visits to Sedalia by Walton. He was really something to see for he wore white flannels. The tenth time he came he took her away with him.

They were married in the Calvary Episcopal church on Oct. 23, 1889, and Nell wore a green broadcloth suit with matching hat trimmed in autumn leaves. To the two little sisters, the only ones in the wedding party, thought it was a wonderful occasion. The church was decorated with fall leaves from their trees at home and Bess kept her eyes glued on Papa who gave Nell away with two tears rolling down his cheeks. Her sister nudged her, "Don't look at Papa like that," she whispered.

They wore white Kate Greenaway dresses empire style with brown sashes and big brown hats with white plumes. They wore gloves, too, brown ones.

And so Nell went away with her very rich Englishman to Minnesota where she lived in luxury the rest of her life.

It was in 1900 that Maria learned that her husband was taking his family to Kansas City and she dreaded to tell Elizabeth about it. But Elizabeth was having a worry too, the Faulhabers were moving to St. Louis, and she couldn't find the courage to tell Maria she was leaving. They laughed at themselves when they found out.

Papa died a little later, and so did Martin. Juliet married W. O Harris and moved to Sedalia and later Maria came back with her son, Charlie and daughter, Bess, to live with Juliet after the death of Mr. Harris. She loved to tell about the early days when they first married and lived on the other side of the tracks when the town was first started. Then she died and several years later Charlie died.

The big brick home where they lived was converted into a hospital and later burned down. Then the little brick hospital was built, which was later used for the nurses home, until the new wing of the Bothwell Hospital was built.

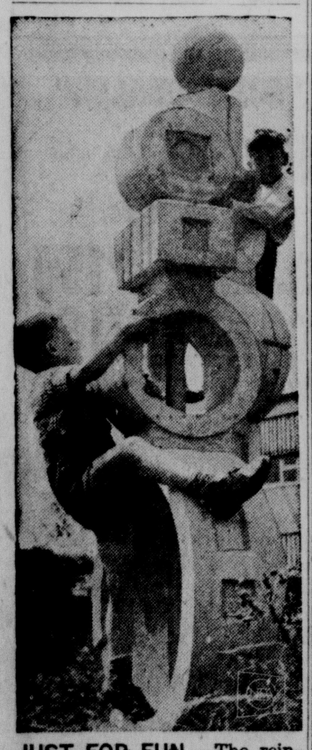

"We had a happy childhood there," said Mrs. Harris, who remembered how Mr. Walton used to take Nell buggy riding and she always got to go with him to take the buggy back and then could walk home with him.

And Bess remembered the Christmas mornings when they would stand in line outside the living room door waiting to get in to see what Santa brought. She was the baby so she was always the last one to get in the room. One day she found an onion in her stocking and she thought she had to eat it or Santa wouldn't come again — but Papa found her in time.

Their house had the first telephone in that part of town, a long thing on the wall with two bells at the top. The city first thought it would put it in the little grocery store then realized the store could be closed at night and so asked Mr. Ingram if it could be put in his house in case of emergency in that part of town. One time Bess sang a little song over the telephone — she thought to Papa, but it wasn't Papa on the other end of the line — it was some other man.

"Yes," agreed Bess, "we had a happy childhood."

Mrs. Wissehr Speaks At Guild Meeting

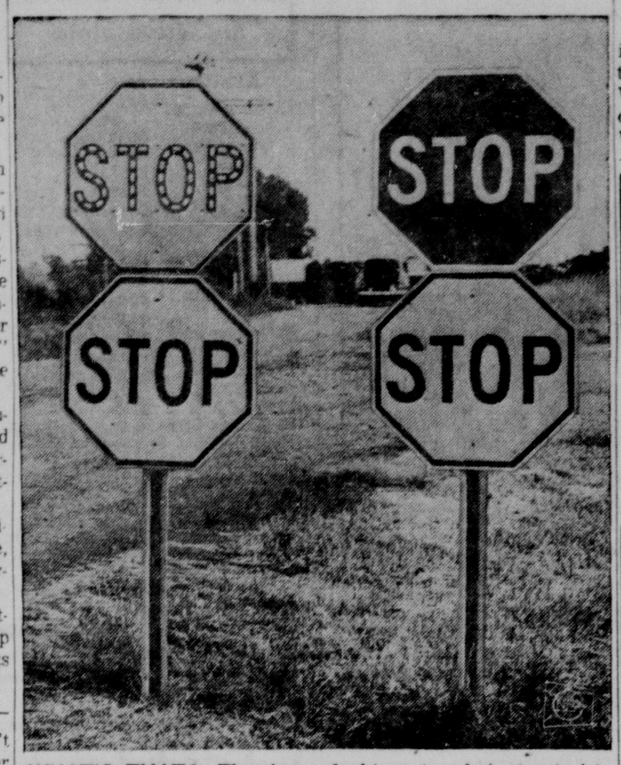

Thirty-six members of the Women's Guild of the United Church of Christ, California, met at the church on Friday.

After opening the meeting with a song and prayer, Mrs. Theodore Bueker, president, welcomed the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Wissehr, Jefferson City. Mrs. Wessehr is currently spiritual life chairman of the Regional Women's Guild. She chose for her topic, "The Power of Prayer" and had a prayer session at the close of her discourse.

Forty-five sick calls were tabulated. Mrs. John Bueker, who had recently undergone major surgery, was able to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Paul Lebeck was nominated, subject to her acceptance, a delegate to the Summer Conference at Crete, Neb.

Following the meeting the hostesses with Mrs. Charley Schlup as chairman, served refreshments in the church dining room.

WHAT'S THAT?—There's no doubt as to what a motorist must do at this road junction. The quadruple stop signs illustrate a few of the many sign varieties in use in America. The markers are erected on a "road to nowhere" in Hastings, Minn. A firm manufacturing reflecting material tests its products here.

VIC FLINT

by Jay Heavilin

MISS SAYE, YOU FAINTED BEFORE I COULD POINT OUT THAT I AM SUSPENDING SENTENCE IN YOUR CASE AND PLACING YOU ON PROBATION FOR TWO YEARS.

THAT EVENING, LYNNE, HER BROTHER JIM AND I CELEBRATED.

JIM, CAN YOU EVER FORGIVE ME?

CAN I EVER FORGIVE MYSELF? I WAS TOO BUSY BEING MR. TELEVISION TO BE YOUR BROTHER!

AND WHILE WE WERE CELEBRATING...

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With Major Hoople

HOOPLE, I'M WARNING YOU TO KEEP THAT VICIOUS CAT IN YOUR OWN YARD! IF HE DOESN'T QUIT PANICKING MY CHICKENS I'LL—

EGAD, NEIGHBOR BAXTER— CHOMP-CHOMP!— CALM YOURSELF!

HERMAN WOULDN'T HARM A FEATHER OF YOUR FLEA-BITTEN FLOCK! THAT CAT IS THE SOUL OF GENTLENESS — FELIS GENTILIUS!

FLEA-BITTEN, EH? YOU WITH YOUR PHONY BIG WORDS, I'LL— I'LL— YOU SEE IF I DON'T!

AND ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE BAXTERS

LOOK, MINNIE — BAXTER'S CHICKENS ARE IN MY GARDEN AGAIN! SHALL I GET MY SHOTGUN, LIKE I THREATENED, OR—

YOU FORGET THE SHOTGUN AND CALL THE POLICE — THEY'LL DEAL WITH BAXTER!

IS THIS HARVEY BAXTER? — LOOK, WE'RE GETTING COMPLAINTS THAT YOU'RE KEEPING CHICKENS! — EGAD, MAN, THERE'S A CITY ORDINANCE AGAINST THAT! IF YOU DON'T GET RID OF THEM YOU'LL LAND IN JAIL!

HE SAID "EGAD!" AND THAT GAVE HIM AWAY! IT'S HOOPLE DISGUISING HIS VOICE!

LISTEN, YOU OVERSTUFFED LARD CAN — NOBODY'S TELLING ME WHAT TO DO ABOUT MY CHICKENS! PUT THAT IN YOUR OPIUM PIPE AND SMOKE IT!

M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

WELL, YOU DIDN'T GET VERY FAR WITH YOUR FEEBLE JOKE, DID YOU, HOOPLE?

JOKE? BAXTER, IN ADDITION TO BEING DISAGREEABLE, YOU'RE DAFT!

YOU'RE BAXTER, THE GUY WHO KEEPS CHICKENS, AREN'T YOU?

YES, BUT—

W-WASN'T THAT YOU ON THE PHONE, MAJOR?

PLEASE TELL 'EM IT'S ALL A MISTAKE! I THOUGHT IT WAS YOU— YOU'RE THE ONLY ONE WHO SAYS "EGAD"!

YOU'LL FEEL BETTER WHEN YOU'VE SLEPT IT OFF, BAXTER — YOU SOUND A LITTLE MIXED UP! PERHAPS IT'S THE HEAT!

KEVIN THE BOLD

by KELLEY COLLINS

HAVING DISPOSED OF KEVIN BY DRUGGING HIM, MILLICENT TEENDALE STARTS ON THE SECOND PHASE OF HER PLAN TO TURN THE "FALCON" OVER TO HER BELOVED BRIAN HUDSON, A RENEGADE NAVAL CAPTAIN.

HERE ARE YOUR PAPERS, CAPT. SAMSON. SET SAIL AT ONCE. I'LL GET WORD TO CAPT. HUDSON TO BE ON THE LOOKOUT FOR YOU AND THE "FALCON."

THE SIGNATURE ON THESE PAPERS COULDN'T BE BETTER IF KING HENRY HAD SIGNED THEM HIMSELF.

T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

"CAPT. SAMSON WILL ASSUME IMMEDIATE COMMAND OF THE FALCON REPLACING SIR KEVIN WHO HAS BEEN TRANSFERRED TO..."

BRING YOUR PAPERS ABOARD, SIR. I WISH TO READ THEM FOR MYSELF.

HIDE, LAD. AND KEEP YOUR TONGUE IDLE!

BUT THIS DOESN'T MAKE SENSE.

IN THE RIVERSIDE STOREHOUSE OF MILLICENT TEENDALE'S HOME.

I WAS A FOOL! SHE DRUGGED ME!

Oooo

FAITH, PEDRO AND BRETT WILL BE WORRIED. IT'S ALMOST DAWN -- WE SHOULD BE WEIGHING ANCHOR.

AT THAT MOMENT, PEDRO, WHO PROTESTED CAPT. SAMSON'S "UP ANCHOR" COMMAND, HAS BEEN ORDERED PLACED IN IRONS.

WHAT DID YOU DO TO SIR KEVIN, YOU SONS OF THE DEVIL?

PUT HIM BELOW!

WE HAVE NO TIME FOR HIM NOW. WE'LL GO OUT WITH THE TIDE AND MAKE FOR THE SEA.

WE'LL SETTLE THAT LATER. FIRST, LET'S GET OURSELVES OUT OF THIS FIX!
